IN STRANGE MIXUP SENT TO SHERBORN

Man Named Murphy Indicted, Nobody Knows Why

When Frank Murphy, alias Henry Kelley of Lowell, was brought before Judge Lawton in the Middlesex superior court yesterday, charged with attempted larceny from the person, his story disclosed what appears to be one of the most remarkable blunders on the part of the police that has ever been told in a Massachusetts court in years.

His answer to the charge, which was that he had attempted to go through the pockets of an unknown person in Lowell on the day of June 3, was that he could not have done it because he had been for two years a prisoner at Deer Island on a conviction of breaking and entering.

Murphy was indicted yesterday and brought into court.

"What are you going to plead?" Judge Lawton asked him.

"I don't know, Your Honor, what to plead. I certainly could not have tried to rob a man in Lowell, because I was locked up at the time at Deer Island. These policemen have made a mistake and got the wrong man."

Judge Lawton looked surprised and called George W. McSweeney, who had brought Murphy to East Cambridge.

"I don't think he could have been the man, either," said McSweeney. "For we have had him down to the island for a long time and he surely has not been out."

Judge Lawton then tried to find out how it happened that Murphy had been indicted, but got no reason. Pending an investigation, Murphy will go on serving his sentence.

"That a big mistake was made is very evident and the police officials of Lowell and Boston are today trying to iron out the matter."

The man who was arrested in Lowell on the date in question and who gave the name of Frank Murphy is one of the most notorious pickpockets in the country and after he received bail in this city it was thought that he would "jump" that bail.

Murphy, who travels under many aliases, came to Lowell on June 3, a circus day, and his peculiar actions at the Middlesex street station attracted the attention of Patrolman Cawley. When the man acted in a suspicious manner jumping on and off trains the officer did not place him under arrest inasmuch as he had no evidence against him. When Patrolman Cawley was relieved shortly after six o'clock he notified Patrolmen Frank Donovan and John Clark to keep an eye on the man.

It was not long after that the officers saw Murphy and another man attempt to pick a man's pocket on a train which pulled into the station. After a lively tussle he was placed under arrest and when arraigned in court probable cause was found and he was held for the grand jury, bail being placed at $350.

Despite the fact that the prisoner gave the name of Frank Murphy, two Boston inspectors were present on the day of the trial and they identified him as one Merrill S. Gridley, better known to the profession as "Red" Creighton, but who had travelled under the following aliases: William Brown, William Kimball, Patrick McCarthy, John Franklin, John Morrissey, John Scott, Frank Johnson, George Jones and Frank Thomas.

A few days after he was sentenced to appear before the grand jury a Boston attorney went bail for him. The following day Murphy was arrested in Boston and pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to pick a man's pocket on an electric car. He was sentenced to nine months at Deer Island.

Last week Supt. Moffatt had a habeas issued for Murphy to appear before the superior court of Middlesex county in Cambridge next Monday. The habeas was served and undoubtedly by the mistake on some one's part he was brought into court yesterday.

Mrs. Moffatt is of the opinion that either there are two men going by the name of Frank Murphy at Deer Island or else the Murphy who was arrested in Lowell gave a different name when arrested in Boston.

THE WOOL THIEVES

Of the Washington Mills, Lawrence, Indicted

LAWRENCE, Sept. 12.—The grand jury, after a session which began on Monday morning and continued successively each day, reported at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the list of cases presented for their consideration. Among the local cases of interest, upon which indictments were returned, were those of Franklin Butler, Jr., and Willis N. Kibb, both of this city, and Fred G. A. Stone of North Andover, 12 counts in all, which

MR. BRYAN'S VISIT THE FILIPINOS

To Norwalk of a Business Nature Prefer the Election of Bryan

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 19.—W. J. Bryan spent an hour and a half in this city today, to pay his respects to the memory of one of his most beloved friends, the late Alexander Troup. Upon his arrival from New York Mr. Bryan was met by Alexander Troup, son of the late editor, and taken in an automobile to the Troup residence, where he extended his condolences to Mrs. Troup and the members of the family. This was a purely private visit, and Mr. Bryan was accompanied by any of the party who came with him from New York. After leaving the Troup residence, Mr. Bryan with Mr. Alexander Troup went to Evergreen cemetery, where upon the grave of Mr. Troup he placed a floral offering.

When the train reached South Norwalk Mr. Bryan was greeted by a cheering crowd which demanded that he appear upon the platform of his car. He started to shake hands with the people, but cries for a speech went up and in a few remarks the democratic candidate for president declared that he was in perfect accord with the platform of the party and to the fact that Mr. Troup had imitated him in the matter of talking into a phonograph.

The next thing he looked for, he said, was that the republican party would further infuse on democratic methods by raising campaign contributions by popular subscription.

Mr. Bryan left here on the Limited Bay State express at 11:30 for New London.

THE NATIONALIST PARTY is the largest group in the Philippine assembly and, according to Mr. Barretto, is unanimously opposed to Mr. Troup's election. On June 18 the Philippine assembly by a vote of 54 to 15 declared that the people desire immediate independence. Mr. Troup wants to defend his policy on the ground that it ought to be adopted whether the Filipinos want it or not. He can do so but he cannot bring the support of his position any authoritative declaration by any considerable portion of the Filipinos.

AN ERROR FOUND

In the Maine Election Returns

EASTPORT, Me., Sept. 19.—In canvassing the returns of Monday's election the city council discovered that in ward two, 25 votes had been counted for the entire democratic ticket when they should have been added to the republican returns. The city clerk was instructed to correct the returns as shown by the recount. This, it was understood, ensures the election of George H. Eaton of Calais and Jasper Wyman of Milbridge, the republican candidates for state senators from Washington county, which had been in doubt.

DEATHS

LEARY—Kate Leary, a well known and highly respected member of St. Patrick's parish, died this morning at her late home, 1 rear 45 Cross street. She deceased leaves to mourn her loss three sisters, Mrs. John Crane and Miss Julia Leary of this city and Mrs. John Fitzgerald of Chicago; two brothers, John Leary of Chicago and Timothy Leary of Newmarket, N. H. The funeral will take place Monday morning from her late home at 8:30. High mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. Funeral in charge of Undertaker Peter H. Savage.

CURRAN—The following from the Buffalo Courier of Sept. 5 is the obituary of a woman well known in Lowell: Mrs. Landon D. Curran, wife of Landon D. Curran, died suddenly yesterday morning at the family residence, No. 824 Main street. During her residence in Buffalo Mrs. Curran by her charming personality and forceful character had endeared her self to a host of friends who deplore her death. The body will be taken to Detroit, where the funeral will be held Thursday morning. Mrs. Curran was connected with the Eaton shoe Co., is receiving the sympathy of his many friends in Buffalo.

The old house and the new should have a WINCHESTER HEATER.

LOWELL COUPLE

GRANTED A DIVORCE IN LAWRENCE COURT.

LAWRENCE, Sept. 19.—Lydia Gibbs brought suit for divorce against her husband, Chapin H. Gibbs, in the Essex county superior court yesterday. Her testimony was to the effect that she married in Lowell in March, 1892, and then went to Lawrence where on account of his intemperate habits they separated in 1898. They had one child, aged 15. She declared that he also abused her. He was an electrician by trade while she, ever since the estrangement, has been maintaining herself and child by being employed as a general domestic. A decree nisi was granted.

FUNERALS

DOLAN—The funeral of the late Peter Dolan took place yesterday morning from his home, Hillieria, and was largely attended. Mass of requiem was held at St. Bernard's church. The choir under the direction of Miss Catherine Gleason sang the Gregorian mass, and at the conclusion the hymn "Only Waiting" was sung, and as the body was borne from the church the choir sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Miss Gleason presiding at the organ. Floral tributes including a large floral arrangement "Father" from the family; cross on base, Mrs. John Clark; spray of asters, Mrs. and Mrs. Ernest Wheeler; spray of asters, Ladies of the G. A. R. No. 20; spray of pinks, Philip Arthur and Charles Talant; spray, Frank Clark; spray, Charles B. Doyle; spray, Mrs. Joseph J. Quill; large wreath, W. J. Lyons family; wreath inscribed "Grandpa," Roland and Richard Conway; mammoth wreath, Margaret brothers; spray, Miss Susie Giles; spray, Della Green, Nellie and Lizzie Shear; spray, T. Doyle; spray, Mrs. Frank J. Quill. The services were Francis and Hugh Maguire, Timothy O'Neill and Michael Hayes. At the grave Rev. Fr. Flaherty read the committal prayers, and the burial was in St. Bernard's cemetery in charge of J. P. O'Donnell & Sons of Lowell.

PERSONALS

Mr. Charles H. Meloy and his daughter, Miss Frances, have returned home after an extended tour of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, and a couple of weeks in Paris.

While Mr. Meloy has been particularly desirous for European travel, the trip from which he so actively participated was immensely enjoyed. It has been very beneficial to his health, and that ever. He has many amusing anecdotes to tell of his experience on the trip. He met Lowell people nearly every place he went.

MILLIONS

The Barlow Family of Lowell Are Close Heirs

Last Link in Chain Identifying a Long Forgotten Fortune Has Been Discovered in Wilmington, Del., and the Lowell Family Are Among the Claimants

Erson B. Barlow, candidate for the legislature in the 11th representative district, appears to have the rosier kind of a future before him, for not only do the political forecasters predict that he will pull off the nomination in the caucus next Tuesday night, but he has just received word from his family lawyers in Syracuse, N. Y., which leads him to believe that he may yet fall into a respectable fortune.

Last May The Sun printed an exclusive story to the effect that the heirs of Baron Christopher Springer of Sweden and Wilmington, Del., who died many years ago, leaving an estate estimated in the millions and no will, had employed counsel to look into their claim, with a view to settling the estate which involved great deposits in Sweden and a vast amount of real estate in the city of Wilmington, acquired by Baron Springer nearly 100 years ago before Wilmington was a city, and which has increased 10 fold in value since his death.

At that time there were 4 heirs, including Messrs. Irving B. Barlow and Erson B. Barlow, and their sisters, Mrs. Sarah Fitzpatrick and Miss Elizabeth Barlow of this city, and a brother, Mr. Eugene Barlow of Norwood, N. Y. When it was discovered that the heirs had a chance to claim a settlement of the estate a meeting was held in New York, at which Judge Hitchcock of Syracuse, N. Y., was employed to look into the matter. At that time there were certain deeds and leases supposed to exist in Wilmington and in Sweden that would prove the claim of the heirs beyond a doubt. Representatives of the New York law firm were sent to Sweden and to the Delaware city to make investigations, and one by one they unearthed bits of evidence to show that originally Baron Springer had great holdings in both of these places which were in his possession at the time of his death. At Wilmington the counsel for the heirs worked under considerable difficulty for the property has since been bought by others as their own, and to produce an unexpected most annoying and disastrous to the present claimant owners.

But Mr. Erson Barlow yesterday received a letter from the lawyers to the effect that the last connecting link to prove the identity of the original owner has been cleared up in the discovery of a 99 year lease of an immense parcel of property made out by Baron Springer which expired only last year. The letter states that the lawyers can now proceed without further difficulty to make formal claim for the division of the estate and to prove the claims of the heirs.

The latter states also that while the original number of heirs was 4, since the matter was given publicity, as The Sun's article was extensively copied in this country and in Sweden, the number of claimants has increased to 65. The Barlow family has perhaps the closest relationship of all for their grandfather was a niece of the baron and was named Springer.

Mr. Barlow's many friends hope to hear some day that he has received a "barrel" even if he doesn't get it in time for the campaign.

TO OPPOSE HIBBARD

Rep. O'Donnell and Eben T. Adams Mentioned

Hon. John N. Cole, candidate for lieutenant-governor came to Lowell last evening and met the local republicans whose names will appear on the official ballots in the coming caucuses as Cole delegates. That Mr. Cole has a large following in this city was evidenced by the large number of republicans who turned out for the meeting under the impression that Mr. Cole was present to meet republicans generally even as did his opponent, Mr. Frothingham the evening previous.

Bryan and Kern Club

The Bryan and Kern club of this city has elected the following officers: President, Warren P. Riosian; secretary, John R. Mealey; treasurer, William J. Seannell; vice presidents—ward 1, William J. Curran; ward 2, Michael Duffy; ward 3, Thomas E. Kelley; ward 4, John Reilly; ward 5, William F. Cullen; ward 6, James E. Callahan; ward 7, Edward J. Cunningham; ward 8, John M. Ryan; ward 9, Frank Lumberg; finance committee, Dr. Wesley Sawyer, Daniel P. Doyle, John J. Gilbride, Charles Duffy and Edward J. Donnelly. A smoke talk will be held next week and Mr. Riosian has suggested the service of a prominent Boston democrat to address the members. The club already has a membership of 100 and it is expected that on the occasion of the smoke talk this number will be increased to at least 300.

REV. FR. LAMOTHE

ARRIVES IN ROME TO ATTEND GENERAL CHAPTER

The general chapter of the Oblate order will meet tomorrow at the Oblate mother house in the Via Valeriana, 404-Palazzo, Rome, for the purpose of electing a new general of the order to succeed the late Very Rev. Fr. de Lavalliere, O. M. I. The probable result will be the election of Very Rev. Fr. Evario, O. M. I., the present vicar-general. The representative of the Lowell Oblate house, at the chapter is Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. I., of St. Joseph's church who arrived in Rome this week after a visit to France where he met Very Rev. Fr. Evario, O. M. I. of Buffalo province and six other Oblates in Paris and passed on with them to London.

A SCRAPPY GAME

Outfielder Courtney Clouts Umpire
Buckley During Game

And There Was no Police Officer on the Grounds—Lowell Won in a Good Batting Game

There were about 150 fans present at the game between Lowell and Haverhill at Washington park yesterday afternoon. Mr. Winn was taking tickets at the gate and Manager Hamilton, of the visiting team, was conspicuous by his absence.

The game was called at 3:15 o'clock.

First Inning
Lowell scored two runs in the first inning, while the Shoe City aggregation failed to tally. Ball singled and stole second. Courtney hit to Warner and was out at first. Ball going to third. Warner then caught Ball napping off third base. McInnis sent the ball to left field for two bases, but Templeton struck out.

In the latter half of the inning McMahon hit to Fullerton and died at first. Vandergriff singled and Magee hit by third base for a two-bagger. Howard singled and Vandy and Magee scored. Head singled and stole second. Wolfe and Cox struck out.

Second Inning
Neither side scored in the second. Reilly hit to Vandergriff and was out at first. Andrews fled to Howard in right centre and Murphy followed with a single, but Perkins hit to McMahon and was out at first.

Leimeux hit to Murphy and was out at first. Warner fled to Ball. McMahon bunted along the third base line for a single and then stole second, but Vandergriff struck out.

Third Inning
The third inning was made interesting by Umpire Buckley ordering Manager Winn off the grounds. Fullerton was the first man up and he fled to Howard. Ball followed with a two-bagger. Courtney hit to left field for a single and Ball scored. The decision was a close one and Manager Winn, who was sitting on the bench, shouted "Heil! Heil!" and the umpire told Mr. Winn to yaaaaaaa and he did. Courtney tried to steal second and was nailed. McInnis fled to Magee.

In Lowell's half Magee fled to Templeton. Toward fled to Ball and Beard struck out.

Fourth Inning
There was excitement galore in the latter half of the fourth inning and the home team succeeded in scoring four runs. Templeton hit to Wolfe and was out at first. Reilly fled to Howard and Andrews hit to McMahon and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Wolfe singled. Cox hit to the pitcher who threw to second and the umpire called him safe. This caused a howl on the part of the Haverhill aggregation. Cox was caught off first but the umpire called him safe. Courtney rushed in from the field and had some words with Umpire Buckley. The latter ordered Courtney off the grounds and besides refusing to go struck Buckley in the face. As much as Mr. Winn is practising economy there were no police officers on the grounds and a messenger was sent out to make a search for a police officer. A little while later Sergt. Freeman made his appearance on the scene and escorted Courtney from the grounds. Leimeux then struck out and Warner hit to McInnis. The ball was a bad bounding one and the sphere struck McInnis in the eye. McMahon singled and Wolfe and Cox scored. Vandergriff singled and Warner and McMahon scored. Magee singled. Howard hit to Murphy and was out at first.

NOTED TENNIS EXPERTS WHO PLAYED AT BOSTON TOURNAMENT
BOSTON, Sept. 18.—While Great Britain and the United States have been the two main powers in the international tennis tournament at Boston, the presence of the strongest team for the U. BASEBALL NOTES

Young Jimmy O'Rourke is proving a hardy utility man for the New York hipsters.

Hans Wagner, assisted by the Pittsburghs, is still striving valiantly for the pennant.

The American association season closed Monday with Indianapolis winner of the pennant.

Billy Gilbert of the Cardinals says Gometz is the best first baseman in the big league.

Christy Mathewson has been the busy fielder lately. He has made 27 assists in his last two games.

Topsy Hartel will not make the final Western trip with the Athletics. Not that he is to be disposed, simply taking a vacation.

Dunn, the new Brooklyn backstop, recalls Jesse Burkett in the act of his shoulders. If he keeps on hitting as he did last Saturday, he will recall Burkett in other ways.

James, the big Washington and

Glenwood Ranges

"Make Cooking Easy"

Gookin Bros. Co., Lowell

Jefferson teacher and football player, has been drafted from Columbus by the Boston Americans. He was on McGraw's staff a while last spring.

Baltimore looks good to win the Eastern League pennant. Duffy made a great fight to take the flag, and a short time ago many thought he would.

The Cleveland club has already spent this season for new players the sum of $27,500. The Naps certainly have plenty of new material to work on for next season.

Jimmy Collins of the Athletics wants to buy a controlling interest in the Trenton club of the Tri-State League, and is taking steps to secure the loan for next year.

Monte Cross, manager of the Kansas City Baseball club, has been suspended for an indefinite period for dilatory tactics that resulted recently in the delay of a game. Cross' offense was his tardiness in sending in one pitcher after place another, who had been knocked out of the box, his purpose being to keep the new pitcher warm and not warmed up well before starting on the slab.

With the Eastern League season in its last week, nearly every club is anxious to have made money. George Stallings of New York is said to have cleared over $20,000, and the Philadelphia and Baltimore clubs are said to be over that sum. Jimmy Collins of the Athletics is said to have cleared over $20,000.

When the Brooklyn club recently lost all of its catches through injuries, Manager Donovan wanted John Hummel to don the backstop's cap, but the former Holyoke doctored, and Outfielder Maloney had to go in backstop. Hummel has played every position on the Brooklyn team excepting pitcher and catcher.

Duffy has signed James Ward, who has been pitching for New London and New Britain of the Connecticut League this season. Ward made the best record in that league this season.

Another effort will be made by the Tri-State League the coming winter to cut down the salary limit. Most of the club owners have been paying Eastern League salaries and a majority of them closed with a deficit.

Charles Bennett of the Boston National has decided to play no more this season. He left for his Michigan home and hopes to have his long leg in shape for the 1909 campaign.

The season is over in the Connecticut League, and the race was one of the closest in the league's history. Hartford being the pennant to Springfield simply because they had lost one more game than the Springfield. Both teams had won the same number of games, but Hartford had played and lost one more game, which was the margin of difference at the finish. Half a game margin separated the third and fourth clubs. The two leading teams were the only ones that won half their games.

Though the great Nap Lajoie is hitting for the smallest percentage this year that he has struck since he has been in the major leagues, he occasionally manages to rise above his career of managerial duties and save the situation. Tuesday after Haverhill had doubled, Lajoie pounded out a home run drive that beat Chicago with Ed Walsh again this fall.

Had it not been for an unfortunate accident to Murray of the New York A. C. in the 220-yard hurdles his club might have won, but when he was well in the lead he tripped and fell, thereby giving the race to Donohue of the Irish-American A. C.

The finish of the five-mile resolved itself into a duel between Driscoll of the Mercury athletic club and Lee, the crack distance runner from Boston. After running neck and neck for four miles, Driscoll finally drew away from the Boston man and won in the last time of 20m. 25 2-5s.

FOOTBALL NOTES
Harvard has two games out of town this year, the Navy at Annapolis, Oct. 2, and Yale at New Haven, Nov. 21.

Penn's mind has been relieved by a letter from Draper in Maine, which says he will return to college and football again this fall.

The Catholic Indians will open their season against Conway Hall today, representing the team beat Pennsylvania, Harvard and University of Minnesota, and Warner says he will have a better team this season.

Having four tackling dummies gave a lot of time at Cambridge. All the men can go through this branch of the practice at the same time and keep together during the other preliminary work on the playing field.

Len Stacey, Chicago's coach, says a well ordered team should have 60 plays and no more. Yale usually uses a box set, while some of the big teams Yale beats have nearly twice as many.

Bates already has begun practice for its game against Harvard. There are about forty candidates, including one of last year's team. The coaches this year are Purinton and Mason.

Fielding H. Yost of Michigan has just started his team. He has further some of the Quakers this year and is anxious to get back at them after two consecutive defeats. Yost was an old favorite player and three years ago spent a winter in the east seeing big games and getting the point of view of the eastern coaches.

WHAT'S IT WORTH TO HEAR WELL
If a man with perfect hearing were asked to sell that sense, how many buyers do you suppose he would want for it? Few there are who would sell at any price. Yet, countless people are losing their hearing gradually without taking any steps to prevent the loss. If you find yourself in this plight, think for a moment of the consequences. Talk of the loss of the joys which deaf people miss. Think of the scorned respect they earn. Think of the loss in dollars and cents.

A prominent Boston merchant said the other day: "That man there was one of my best customers, but he is now a deaf man. He has lost his hearing, and I shall have to let him go. I cannot wait on him in that condition." That man will soon be on the work. His deafness will prevent him getting further business. Are you sure that no such danger threatens you?

Yet deaf people are needless sufferers, for we cure Deafness, Head Noises and Catarrhs. If you are in suffering from these troubles, come to us for an examination. Our specialists change your life from one of misery and danger to one of joy and happiness, contentment and success. Come now.

IRISH DELEGATES

Say That Glad Days for Ireland Are Coming

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—"I do not think I can recall a time when the cause of Ireland stood in so strong a position, both at home and abroad, as it does at the present time," said John E. Redmond, M. P., leader of the Irish party last night, as he was being interviewed on the Irish question at the Hotel Lenox.

The Irish leader, accompanied by his wife and his associate delegates, Joseph Devlin, M. P., and John Fitzgibbon, and by Capt. Edward O'Leary, arrived from New York at the South station at 6 p. m. The train was crowded by enthusiastic Irishmen, and when Mr. Redmond and his companions were seen coming out of the car a loud cheer burst forth and continued as the party moved along the platform.

M. P. Curran Escorts Mrs. Redmond

As soon as a passage could be made through the crowd, a little informal procession was formed and progressed through a lane of cheering admirers to the waiting carriages outside.

The line was led by M. P. Curran of the national executive committee, escorted Mrs. Redmond. Next came the Rt. Rev. Mgr. O'Callaghan with Mr. Redmond. Then followed Mark H. Grehan with Mr. Fitzgibbon, Dr. T. J. Dillon with Mr. Devlin, M. P., Christopher J. Fitzgerald with Capt. Condon, National Secretary O'Callaghan, Dr. P. J. Timmins, E. O'Brien Kennedy, M. A. Toland, Dr. D. T. O'Keefe, Edward Fitzwilliam, Michael Maynes, Dr. John O'Regan, Dr. H. V. McLoughlin, Col. Roger Scannell and scores of other prominent members of the United Irish League were also in the receiving party.

The Irish representatives and their friends drove to the Hotel Lenox, which is to be the headquarters of the national officers of the U. I. L. of America during the biennial convention to be opened in Faneuil Hall on Tuesday morning.

Home Rule Seems Assured.

Mr. Redmond and his associate delegates received a large party of newspaper men and talked with candor and frankness regarding the great political movement, of which he is the chosen leader.

In reply to questions put to him by his interviewers, Mr. Redmond said: "I do not think I can recall the time when the cause of Ireland stood in so strong a position, both at home and abroad, as it does at the present moment. Home rule is an absolutely certain event of the future. How near of course, it is impossible to say, but there is no shelving the question now Ireland has made immense gains in the year just passed."

"The land question is settling itself steadily but surely. One-third of the land of Ireland is now in the hands of its rightful owners, the tillers of the soil, and it is only a question of time and the rapidity of transfer, when all the soil of Ireland will be owned by the farmers of Ireland."

"The Irish university act, which we have just won after many years of fighting, I regard as great act of emancipation for the Catholic people of Ireland as that won by O'Connell in 1829. It is the first really complete installment of home rule which we have won in the British parliament."

"The university act is to establish will be a distinctly Irish national university. No English minister can interfere with its policy or its management, no cabinet or administration can hamper its work. It will be managed by Irishmen who will be in full sympathy with the aspirations and just claims of the Catholic people of Ireland in regard to the higher education for their sons."

Hierarchy on Governing Board
The board of government of the university includes members of the Irish hierarchy, members of the Irish nationalist party and members of the Gaelic League, including its able leader, Dr. Douglas Hyde.

Asked whether he thought the occurrences of last Sunday in London and the action of Premier Asquith in connection with the Catholic parade would

RIVAL NOMINEES SNAPPED AT SYRACUSE FAIR

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—This photograph of Governor Charles E. Hughes and Lieutenant Governor Lawrence S. Chanler was taken at the Syracuse (N. Y.) fair the day following the two conventions which pitted them against each other for the highest office in the Empire State. For several hours Governor Hughes was the personal guest of his democratic rival, and to those who commented upon the odd fact of the two candidates being together each man expressed his personal admiration for the other. To meet Mr. Hughes in a more quiet way Mr. Chanler invited a number of well known citizens and fair officers to an informal luncheon at the clubhouse on the fair grounds at noon.

have any bearing upon the political situation in parliament, Mr. Redmond replied: "I am without any knowledge of the circumstances connected with that event. We were at sea when it happened. All the information we got was a brief Marconi dispatch, which was posted in the saloon, to the effect that Mr. Asquith had interfered with the program of the procession. Beyond that we heard nothing. All I will say is that action of the kind taken by Mr. Asquith does not belong to him as prime minister. The home secretary is the responsible official in all such cases."

Concluding his remarks, Mr. Redmond expressed the great pleasure he felt at finding himself, if only for a brief stay, once more in Boston, among those people he has many warm and devoted friends.

Corrects a Statement
As a final word, the Irish leader corrected a statement attributed to him by a New York paper, in which he was made to say that Anglo-Saxon opinion would finally settle the Irish question.

"Of course I said nothing of the kind," said Mr. Redmond, "in fact I do not believe there is such a thing as Anglo-Saxon opinion (laughter). What I said was that the opinion of the American people would have a large share in settling the Irish question, which is an entirely different thing."

Mr. Devlin, M. P., besides being general secretary of the United Irish League, is national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, gave an interesting explanation first to the order of which he is the head and then of the composition of the national convention of the United Irish League held every year in Ireland. He said in part:

Hibernians Are United
"It has been suggested by certain people here in America that there are two branches of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Ireland. This is absolutely untrue. There were two bodies or branches up to four years ago, but they were united into one common organization and a common body of officers, of which I am the president. There are 500 branches or divisions, numbering 50,000 members."

"Notice some person says he is coming over from America to investigate our organization. I would suggest to him that he would come over and see for himself how people can manage their own business and conduct their own affairs in perfect unity and harmony."

GO TO THE RESCUE

Don't Wait Till It's Too Late—

Follow the Example of a

Lowell Citizen

Rescue the aching back.

If it keeps on aching, trouble comes.

Backache is kidney ache.

If you neglect the kidneys' warning,

Look out for urinary trouble—diabetes.

This Lowell citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.

Mrs. Mary Lahiff, living at 15 Franklin Court, Lowell, Mass., says:

"Kidney trouble caused me a great deal of suffering. I had a constant backache and mornings would be so lame that I could hardly get around. I used plasters and various remedies but nothing helped me and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I immediately procured a box at Billingswood & Co.'s drug store and began their use. The backache soon ceased, the action of the kidneys secretions was made more regular and I could rest well at night. I am thoroughly convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills is a remedy that will do exactly what is claimed for it."

TAFT MEN SORRY

That They Made Up With Senator Foraker

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—The recent celebration of Taft-Foraker reconciliation is cancelled, because Senator Foraker has admitted that he received money from the Standard Oil company while a U. S. senator.

Senator Foraker has issued a public statement that he acted as attorney within legitimate lines and with the full knowledge of the public.

The Taft people say that the attorney defense is a subterfuge and that they never knew before that the senator was a Standard Oil representative.

Three members of past legislatures said yesterday that while there had been general report that Mr. Foraker was a corporation attorney, they had no knowledge of the fact that he was a Standard Oil lobbyist.

Embarrassing to Taft.

To friends Senator Foraker said that he believed he could defend his record, but that he understood that the fact that he is billed to speak with Taft before the national league of republican clubs here next week was embarrassing Mr. Taft. He said that if that were true he would withdraw from the meeting if Mr. Taft should ask him to do so.

It is certain that Mr. Taft will speak. It could not be said last night, however, what form the elimination of Foraker would take. There was a report that he would appear for an hour in the morning and then return to his home with his statement. That there was no such thing, however, was so many wished to see him. When asked for comment on the letters between Foraker and Archibald, he said:

MORE LETTERS HE'S GOING AWAY

From Standard Oil Co. to Foraker

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19.—William R. Hearst, in a speech last night, answered the reply which Sen. Foraker made yesterday to the letters read by Mr. Hearst in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday night.

Mr. Hearst said in part:

"Mr. Foraker replies in characteristic republican manner. He admits that he did serve Standard Oil, and is proud of it. His statement is based on letters I read last night. If he had seen the letters I am going to read tonight he would have denied the whole matter."

The first letter follows:

"26 Broadway, New York, January 27, 1902.

"My Dear Senator: Responding to your favor of the 25th it gives me pleasure to hand you herewith certificate of deposit for $50,000 per our understanding. I am glad to state the conditions correctly and I trust the transaction will be successfully consummated."

"Very truly yours,"

"J. D. Archibald."

"Hon. J. B. Foraker, Washington, D. C."

The second letter as read by Mr. Hearst was as follows:

"26 Broadway, New York, Feb. 25, 1902.

"My Dear Senator: I venture to write you a word relative to the bill introduced by Senator Jones of Arkansas, known as S. 468, and intended to amend the act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, etc., introduced by him December 4.

"I really cannot say that this bill is very unnecessarily severe and even vicious. It is not much better to test the Sherman act before resorting to a measure of this kind. I hope you will feel so about it and I will be greatly pleased to have a word from you on the subject. The bill is, I believe, still in committee."

"With kind regards,

"Yours very truly,"

"John D. Archibald."

"Hon. J. B. Foraker, Washington, D. C."

The bill referred to in this letter is the one introduced by Senator Jones of Arkansas, in the United States senate. Consequently Mr. Foraker's statement does not convince those who trust the correspondence had nothing to do with any legislation in congress.

There is no greater danger to this republic than this mighty power of money employed for evil. There are no greater criminals than those trusts that corrupt the public servants.

The republican party has long been maintained by these criminal combinations.

DANGEROUS RIDE

WAS TAKEN BY TWO COLLEGE BOYS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Two young men, who described themselves as Andrew Selton, 19 years old, of Brooklyn, Mass., a student in Harvard, and Patrick Donohue, 19, of Bridgeport, Conn., a Yale student, were arrested yesterday at the 125th street railroad station here, after they had taken a perilous ride from Stamford, Conn., to this city.

When the train, a fast express, drew into the 125th street station, the two boys were clinging to the steps under the vestibule of one of the cars. They were covered with dust and grease and were almost completely exhausted from the effort of clinging to their insecure places under the flying train.

The 36 miles from Stamford was made by the train in 46 minutes.

PRESENTED AN UMBRELLA.

Mr. Thomas N. Wall, supervisor of the stitching room of the Newport Shoe Co., severed his connection with that company yesterday to accept a more lucrative position elsewhere, and to show the esteem in which he was held by the girls of that room, Miss Mary L. Queenan, in a very neat speech presented him with a silver handled umbrella with engraved monogram. Mr. Wall thought taken by surprise managed to find a word of thanks. Then three cheers were given Mr. Wall and all left the room in tears but still wishing him success in his new field.

United Party Tendered the Candidate a Brilliant Reception

Tammany Turns Out en Masse to Greet Him — The Dangers Threatening the Country From Republicans Was His Subject

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Democracy's presidential campaign in Greater New York began last night when William J. Bryan, at a mass meeting under the charge of Tammany Hall, spoke before enthusiastic thousands who filled Carnegie hall and overflowed into the streets. The ovation accorded to the presidential candidate was a brilliant climax to a day in which a united party paid Mr. Bryan a continuous reception. Last night thousands turned out to see, hear and shout for the candidate.

Mr. Bryan spoke for over an hour on "Republican Tendencies" at Carnegie hall, and for more than 10 minutes his audience of 3500 applauded his appearance on the platform.

He briefly introduced the democratic candidate. The band played "America" as Mr. Bryan rose to his feet, while the crowd cheered up the louder. When quiet was restored, after a 10-minute outburst of enthusiasm, Mr. Bryan began his speech.

Ranged behind the candidate on the platform were National Chairman Mack, Vice-Chairman Hudspeth, Gov. Cullum, Daniel F. Cahalan, National Straus, E. L. Gotha and many others.

Extravagant Expenditures.

Mr. Bryan took as his subject "Republican Tendencies." He said in part:

"Parties are to be measured not merely by the things actually done, but by their tendencies. Since it is easier after they are full grown, it is important to know the tendencies of parties as well as to know how far they have gone. I desire to night to call attention to some of the tendencies of the republican party."

"Take, for instance, the matter of extravagant expenditures. The tendency of the republican party is to increase the expenditures of the government out of all proportion to the increase in the population. At the last session of the present congress their appropriations exceeded $1,000,000,000. This is twice the appropriations of a session of the 51st congress, which was the highest known up to that time. The appropriations of the last session exceeded the appropriations of the preceding year by $200,000,000. An increase of almost 10 percent—showing that in matters of appropriations the republican leaders are hurrying on at an accelerated pace. And it must be remembered that this enormous increase in appropriations is at a time when there is a deficit of $50,000,000 for the fiscal year. What would be the pace if they were not threatened with a lack of income? The increase in the number of office-holders is likewise enormous. The republicans attempt to excuse their unparalleled appropriations by saying that new work is being undertaken; but this is not a sufficient answer. The

Mr. Bryan touched on the subjects of guarantee of bank deposits, tariff reform, the elimination of private monopoly, also the extravagance of the republican administration, centralization of power and giving the Philippines the promise of independence as soon as they establish a stable government.

Mr. Bryan ended by saying that he

WORST IN YEARS

Great Portion of Pennsylvania Suffering From the Drouth

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Practically the entire state of Pennsylvania east of the Alleghenies is suffering from one of the worst drouths in years. In some parts of the state no rain has fallen in more than two months and streams are so low that many industries have been interfered with and in some instances plants have been shut down for the lack of water. Forest fires are burning in several sections.

At Shenandoah the water supply is so low that farmers are bringing water to the residents in the town. In some of the drouth is more profit in hauling water than peddling produce. Water sells at eight cents a gallon. Several coal mines in that region have been closed because of lack of water to run the power plants.

At Duncannon, near Harrisburg, the Susquehanna river is lower than it has been in more than 100 years.

In Philadelphia the Schuylkill river is lower than at any time since 1869 and canal boats are stranded at different points on the river.

Forest fires which have spread from the railroad tracks to the timberland are causing much excitement, particularly on the Pocono mountains at the eastern edge of the state. The area already covered by the flames is about 30,000 acres.

WORCESTER TEAM FRED N. BURNHAM

Wins Pennant for the Third Time Has Been Summoned to Court

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—With Worcester winning the championship pennant for the third consecutive season, the New England league today closed the playing period of 1908. The outcome of the race for first position had been in doubt up to a week ago, Lawrence and Worcester alternating in the occupancy of the leaders' place, but several days ago the Worcester team won the game which clinched the pennant. Worcester's record for the season was 44 wins and 10 losses. Lawrence's record was 38 wins and 16 losses.

Most of the eight clubs composing the league report a successful condition and the quality of the sport has been good throughout the five months of playing.

Today's closing games were played at New Bedford, Brockton, Lowell and Lawrence, the teams from these cities meeting Lynn, Fall River, Haverhill and Worcester respectively.

FOR BRYAN'S TOUR

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR OCTOBER CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Plans for W. J. Bryan's big speaking tour in October are being rapidly completed, and National Chairman Mack announced today that the final week of the campaign would find Mr. Bryan swinging across the country from New York to Omaha. The itinerary in the earlier part of the month has not been arranged, but the national committee has planned that Mr. Bryan will speak in the following places in the last week of the campaign: New York, Oct. 22; Brooklyn, Oct. 23; New York, Oct. 24; Buffalo, Oct. 25; Albany, Oct. 26; Buffalo, Oct. 27; Chicago, Oct. 28; and the last speech of the campaign the night before election in Omaha.

$300,000 DAMAGE

Has Been Caused by the Forest Fires in Maine

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—The raging of vast sections of timberlands by forest fires continued without noticeable decrease today, either in the intensity or volume of almost a score of distinct fires which burned in as many sections of the state throughout the night and during the forenoon.

It was estimated that up to today that damage by forest fires, including the devastation of wild lands and the losses in the incorporated towns, aggregated more than $300,000, the greater proportion of which has been caused in the districts partly inhabited.

In most places the work of subduing the flames has been organized by the fire wardens and officials, so that delays are maintained which relieve each other at stated intervals, thereby giving the men opportunity to recover from the effects of the dense smoke and intense heat. All last night the work was kept up, although with diminished numbers, the fire themselves serving to light up the scene for those who endeavored to quench them.

The advent of a northeast wind today was expected to cause a further spread of the fire, and in many cases it carried the fire wardens and officials, so that delays are maintained which relieve each other at stated intervals, thereby giving the men opportunity to recover from the effects of the dense smoke and intense heat. All last night the work was kept up, although with diminished numbers, the fire themselves serving to light up the scene for those who endeavored to quench them.

Two of these fires with the change of the wind to the northeast burned in a direction from which sparks and embers were carried toward the villages of Surry and Brooksville. The latter place was regarded as being in the line of most threatening of any of the fires now burning throughout the state, and here the efforts of the fire fighters were directed along the banks of Meadow brook, a stream which separates the fire infected region from the houses of the small settlements. The advent of a single spark among the tinder-dried houses might prove to be the beginning of a blaze which would sweep through a number of small villages.

Surrounding the town of Surry was a series of blazing timberland more than four miles long, which at several points adjoined settlements at such proximity as to cause a continuous fight against the flames. The prevailing wind currents were adverse to the efforts of the fire fighters and the situation here was one of great danger.

In showers, predicted for today, lies the only relief possible for the situation.

WIND SHIFTED

AND THE FOREST FIRE SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

ELLSWORTH, Me., Sept. 19.—The forest fire situation had improved somewhat in Hancock county early today, owing to a slight shift of the wind which took it away from the immediate danger points at South Brooksville and Surry villages and the West Hancock settlement. The wind was heavy from the northeast this morning but during the forenoon seemed to be drawing around to the northwest which seemed to increase the danger at several points.

At Brooksville the fire had succeeded in crossing the brook and meadow which divides the town and where the fire fighters made a desperate stand. This morning a general alarm was sent out at Brooksville for men at the northern end of the long line of fire where it was beyond control and sweeping down through a heavy growth of timber toward Brooksville Corner and Sedgewick, two or three miles away.

At Surry the drift of the wind was taking the fire past the village to the north and only a few scattered dwellings were in danger.

The Hancock fire which yesterday threatened the West Hancock settlement had turned, and was running toward the Ellsworth-Lamoine road, where but few dwellings were in the danger zone at 10 a. m.

The Nicolai fire was divided by the Maine Central railroad, and the fire was reported as under control this morning. On the east side of the railroad the fire was burning very fast in a valuable growth of timber. Several sportsmen caught but no dwellings were in its path.

WOODLAND FIRE

BURNING IN THE DIRECTION OF BATES CORNER

LISBON, Me., Sept. 19.—The woodland fire today took another turn with a northerly wind and at 9 a. m. was going toward Bates Corner, where a farming settlement of ten or twelve houses was in danger. The wind shifted during the night in time to save the Protor schoolhouse and the Miller place. It was blowing stronger today than at any time during the week.

STILL BLAZING

FOREST FIRES IN CONN. NOT EXTINGUISHED YET

CANAAN, Conn., Sept. 19.—The forest fires which have been burning on the hills for the past three days are still blazing fiercely. A large force of men spent last night digging trenches around the base of Tom mountain in an effort to check the flames. Near mountain, the highest point in North-western Connecticut, has been practically burned over and people in that section and those living near the Canaan mountains fought the fires all night to prevent their spreading to their homes. An area of over 500 acres has already been burned over.

CAN HE STOP TALKING?

Mr. Bryan is by no means desirous that the president should stop talking for Taft. On the contrary, if the president keeps on it will not be necessary to put any democratic orators on the stump, for Roosevelt single-handed will make Bryan's election a certainty.

It is apparent that the leaders have managed to restrain the president's garrulity as he has not made any break since he demanded the nomination of Hughes in New York and had his long endorsement of Taft published. In all probability he will now insist that Taft will preach "his policies" from the stump.

THE GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESSION.

The fight for lieutenant governor on the republican side in this state puts all other contests in the shade. This is because of the right of succession which makes the office a sure stepping stone to the gubernatorial chair. This is the only state in which such a custom obtains, and it would be a great relief to the public as well as to the republican party if this custom were upset so that the higher office would not be sought through the lower. The custom bars the door against the selection of the best and ablest men available at the moment. It should offer a good opportunity for the election of a strong man as governor on the democratic side. It is evident that a man may pull through as candidate for lieutenant governor who would never be selected as candidate for governor, and thus the injury is done.

THE IRISH OUTLOOK.

The Irish leader, Hon. John E. Redmond, and Joseph Devlin, M. P., come to this country as envoys to attend the national convention of the United Irish League of America to be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Redmond speaks in the most hopeful terms of the outlook for home rule, and well he may, since the British house of commons has decided by a vote of two to one that home rule is the only practical solution of the Irish question.

It may be said that Redmond is but carrying out the policy adopted by O'Connell and transformed to a potent force through the able leadership of Parnell, but now becoming more potent than ever in wringing reforms from England.

If we are to base the estimate of a leader's success upon what has been actually accomplished, then we must acknowledge that John E. Redmond has won far more reforms for Ireland than did either O'Connell or Parnell.

In justice to O'Connell, however, it must be said that it was his prodigious work in the face of enormous odds that made the successes of Parnell and Redmond possible.

In view of the acts restoring the land to the people, rooting out the landlords, improving the homes of the peasants, relieving congestion in impoverished districts, and lastly, the Irish university bill, who can doubt Mr. Redmond's word when he says that home rule is an absolute certainty in the near future.

Under the able and astute leadership of Mr. Redmond, the galaxy of brilliant men who constitute his party, can be relied upon to make the most of every opportunity to benefit Ireland, and this they have been doing with great success for the past decade.

As the progress has been steady, we might say almost during the last two decades, Ireland's condition is now vastly superior to that of ten or fifteen years ago.

This progress will be continuous, and now that the university question, the land question and various other questions affecting the condition of the people, are all settled, the way is clear for home rule, and it will be made a leading issue in the next parliament.

Should it be endorsed by the people in a general election the lords would not dare oppose it, because they would next expect a popular mandate calling for the curtailment of their own powers.

If the Liberals flunk on their pledges once more, the Tories may do as they have done on many previous occasions, viz., win popularity and a longer lease of official life by taking up the Liberal program and putting through some of the leading reforms there outlined. Whether it be the Liberals or the Tories that grant home rule is immaterial to Redmond and his party.

The Irish party will always stand ready to use its power and influence in support of the party that will grant most to Ireland.

Mr. Redmond represents the whole Irish people. He is head of the movement adopted by the people for the advancement of the Irish cause. Those who oppose him and his party oppose the Irish people, and the national movement by which they have won one reform after another until little remains to give Ireland complete autonomy.

On the one side are some who say the policy of the Irish party is too aggressive, on the other are those who say it is not aggressive enough. Both these elements are opposing national unity by which alone the best results can be obtained. The critics, the chronic croakers and the impractical visionaries that deal with things imaginary, are all retarding the progress of the Irish nation, all helping the Tories, the Unionists and others to obstruct the path of Ireland's progress.

SEEN AND HEARD

John Delaney, the tailor, says the thing that preys on a republican's mind must be pretty hungry.

The way that some musicians murder music, it's little wonder that tunes haunt them.

John Turner says it is easy to join in the shouting after the victory is won, and John is an aspirant for mayoralty honors.

It was only last night that five women were discussing one man, and they certainly allowed that he was the goods. "It is very easy," said one of them, "to be good natured around the house when everything goes smoothly, but Mr. X can keep sweet and help keep the children interested while Mrs. X is taking an afternoon off."

All the trips that the genial starter in Merrimack square, Walter H. Hickey, has been taking to Nashua were not altogether in the interest of the company. A fair lass at Nashua beckoned to Walter and now the marriage engagement of Mr. Walter H. Hickey to Miss Eleanor Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Galvin of Nashua, is announced.

WITH LOVE ALONE

I would not want to go with song
I would not want to take love along;
I would not want to stroll and stray
Around the blue dream of the day,
If I was not with her sweet eye,
My comrade, tripping gaily by.I would not want to strive and climb,
To feel my red and spin my rhyme,
To hunt the hope of life's sweetest,
The silver dew of fairy street,
When love led there to take my hand
And with her laughter ring the land.I would not have this hope that fills
My heart with strength to climb the hills,
This eye that loves the green delight
Of fields and woods and star of night,
If I were not before me dancing,
With sweetest lips and cheeks entrancing.I would not want to wake and rise
Were she not there with shining eyes;
I would not want to rest at noon
Were she not there with lips of June;
I would not want to sleep at night
Were she not there to keep me bright.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

John M. Wolf of Hanover, York county, Pa., began on last Monday at the age of 76 in his fifty-fifth school term at Mount Pleasant, two and a half miles south of Hanover. He opened the school with thirty-five pupils, which number will soon increase considerably. The school walks to and from school daily aggregating five miles with ease, returning with as much buoyancy as a man of 45 years. During the fifty-seven school terms taught by Squire Wolf he has taught twenty-two local normals, the object being to prepare students for the profession of teaching. 175 of these students entered the profession, and many of them are ministers, lawyers, physicians and business men.

When the British association paid its visit to South Africa three or four years since the eminent seismologist, Professor John Milne, and the celebrated Cambridge pathologist, Professor Sims Woodhead, took clubs and balls to the Victoria Falls on the Zambezi river, and there the noble record by having the first to drive a ball across the falls, representing a very excellent carry of a hundred and sixty yards.

A visit to George Eliot's country is among the numerous festivities with which the members of the Law society will relieve the business program of their coming meeting at Birmingham. The pleasure of the visit is not likely to be disturbed by the collection of the hard things which are said of the law and lawyers in some of George Eliot's novels. "Mr. Tuliver was a strictly honest man and proud of being honest, but he considered that in law the ends of justice could only be achieved by employing a stronger knife to cut through a weaker law was the business of the injured honestly to get a game bird with the best pick and the strongest spurs." But the author of "The Mill on the Floss" is careful not to put forth Mr. Tuliver's views as her own. She describes his conclusion that "rats, weevils and lawyers were created by old Harry" as "questionable."

Lawyers have been known to wonder how George Eliot contrived to be so accurate in the legal details of her novels. The explanation is that she was wont to consult Mr. Frederic Harrison, who before he devoted himself to literature was practicing member of the Chancery Bar. In the construction of the intricate legal plot in "Floss" she had, in addition to Mr. Harrison's, the help of the late Lord Herschell, then a barrister of some six years standing. Another great lawyer, the late Lord Bowen, was consulted as an incidental point of law in "Daniel Deronda." The attorney in general's "mission" related in Italian in one of the later chapters of "Floss" was written entirely by Mr. Harrison.

Other famous novelists have been not less prudent than George Eliot in obtaining expert advice as to legal difficulties in their stories. Dickens enjoyed the assistance of Talford, himself an author of popular as well as a lawyer. Bulwer Lytton is said to have paid a substantial fee for legal opinion on the details of the lawsuit in "Night and Morning," but the novelist who pays for expert assistance would appear to be less fortunate than he who obtains it gratis. For in "Night and Morning" an authentic copy of a lost register, which no court would ever have admitted in evidence, is treated as conclusive proof of a marriage.

ARMY OFFICERS

Investigate the Aeroplane Accident

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Fort Myer, the scene of Thursday's aeroplane disaster, which resulted in the death of Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge of the signal corps, and the serious injury of Orville Wright, preserved a cheerless aspect yesterday. The air of gloom that pervaded the army post was in marked contrast to the scene of bustle and excitement that had attended the flight of Wright's aeroplane Thursday afternoon, with its tragic climax. The gloom was reflected in the faces of the brother officers of the unfortunate lieutenant when they met at the fort yesterday morning to make an official investigation of the accident, in the manner in which the usual morning cavalry drill was gone through with over the very ground upon which the fatal aerial ship was wrecked, and in the words of appreciation spoken by members of the signal corps balloon squad which had been under the direct charge of Lieut. Selfridge.

Lieut. Selfridge's body was yesterday removed from the hospital at Fort Myer to an undertaker's, where it will remain until the arrival of the young officer's father, who wired today from San Francisco that he would like to have his son buried either at Arlington or West Point. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but a military funeral will be held, and burial will probably be at Arlington National cemetery. Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, president of the Aerial Experiment association, of which Lieut. Selfridge was secretary, will come from Nova Scotia to attend the funeral. Miss Catherine Wright, the sister of the injured aviator, arrived here from Dayton, O., yesterday afternoon, and, accompanied by Charles R. Flint, the Wright brothers' financial agent, visited her brother at the hospital, Octave Chalmers, a close friend and adviser of the Wright brothers, and C. E. Taylor and Lieut. W. F. Burrows, Wright's mechanics, were the only other persons permitted to see him yesterday.

Major George Squire, acting chief signal officer of the army, yesterday convened the board of signal officers for the purpose of making an official inquiry into the death of Lieut. Selfridge. The finding of the board of inquiry was given out by Major Squire as follows:

"The board finds that the accident which occurred in an aerial flight made at Fort Myer, Va., at about 5.15 p. m. on Sept. 17, 1908, was due to the accidental breaking of a propeller blade and a consequent unavoidable loss of control, which resulted in the machine falling to the ground from a height of about 75 feet.

"The board finds that First Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, First Field Artillery (attached to the signal corps by department orders, and assigned to aeroplane duty), accompanied by Mr. Wright, by authority of the signal corps for the purpose of officially receiving instruction, received injuries by the falling of the machine which resulted in his death."

The signal corps will proceed with its aeronautical work and it is understood the Wright brothers will be permitted to make their official trials whenever they are ready without endangering their chance of receiving the contract price of $50,000 for their airplane.

Mr. Wright's assistants, Taylor and Furness, took with them to the hospital yesterday two of the broken parts of the aeroplane. They showed these to Mr. Wright, who said to Taylor:

"The machine was already recovering its balance when it struck, and I am sure if we had had 25 feet further to go we would have landed on the skids without serious damage."

Speaking of Mr. Wright, Mr. Taylor later said:

"The accident was caused by an extraordinary vibration of one of the wires running from the main planes to the upper steel fitting of the rudder. This vibration was so great that it got in range of the propeller and was struck by the blade. This caused the blade to break. The other blade of the propeller flew around and, in turn, struck the same wire, breaking it. This made Mr. Wright lose control of his rudder entirely and the loss of both blades of the propeller and the breaking of the wire caused him to lose control of the plane. Shutting off power to stop the remaining propeller, he steadied the machine somewhat, but the distance to the ground was not great enough to restore the equilibrium. Numerous telegrams of sympathy were received at the Fort Myer hospital yesterday, but they were withheld from Mr. Wright."

LOWELL PLUMBERS

Were the Guests of The Lawrence Plumbers

In reciprocation of the jolly time afforded by the Lowell master plumbers recently, the local masters treated their up-river brethren to a rip-roaring, up-to-date outing Thursday at Camp Dewey, Laurel Grove. The local men, about 30 in number, left this city at noon on the steamer Carlotia and after a delightful trip arrived at Belle Grove, where they met the Lowell contingent.

Thence they went to Camp Dewey, where some of the most delicious clothing was doffed, and stripped for action, a ball game was entered in. According to the scorekeeper the Lawrence men won after a good battle by a score of 11 to 8. The battery for the local team was made up of James O'Dowd and James Bain. O'Dowd, on the slab, pitched a masterly game and was well supported by the team behind him. J. F. McCarthy captured the winners and William F. Farrell of Lowell the losers.

After the game, with appetites sharpened by exercise and rooting, the assembly sat down to a succulent chicken dinner served up in style par excellence by Caterer Patrick H. Finn. Down the river then the plunkers came and repaired to the Franklin House, where headquarters for the evening was made. Supper was enjoyed, after which all went to the Broadway bowling alleys, where they made the pin boys hustle for a couple of hours. Although no match game was rolled, some excellent scores were totalled, showing that there is some fine bowling talent in the fraternity. When all had been satisfied that their bowling arms were in trim for the coming season the Lowell men boarded a car for the up-river city, leaving behind them a host of wishes for the local boys and an invitation to go up to the Spindles City at any time. The committee of arrangements consisted of C. F. Lynch, chairman; John Casey, secretary and treasurer; Peter B. Lavey, James O'Dowd and John F. McCarthy.—Lawrence Eagle.

LIEUT. SELFLEDGE

HAD FIGURED IN A PREVIOUS ACCIDENT

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—That Lieut. Thomas Selfridge, who was killed by the wrecking of the Wright aeroplane at Fort Myer Thursday, had before experienced a fall from an airship and was once saved from death by falling into the water, was recalled last night by Attorney George S. Selfridge of Boston, a cousin of Thursday's victim. The previous accident occurred last year when Selfridge ascended in the flying kite used by Prof. Bell in experimenting at Bas D'or Lake, Cape Breton. Selfridge's feat at the time was one of unusual daring, being nothing less than ascending in the air tied to a monster kite in a terrific gale. The kite being kept up by a motor boat which sped through the water, carrying the end of the kite string. The kite suddenly dived and threw Selfridge headlong into the water. He was rescued by the launch.

ELEPHANT FREE

ANIMAL RAN AMUCK IN THE ZOO

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Frightened by punas, an elephant ran away in the Bronx Zoo yesterday, dashed in and out of the reptile house, forced women to jump into the reptile tanks to escape being crushed to death, tore down fences and shrubbery, and finally dashed back up by a motor boat from which she refused to be removed.

Fearing the elephant would smash in the glass of the reptile cages and set at liberty the many deadly reptiles, if force were used to eject her, the elephant, not yet fully over her panic, was chained heavily and permitted to remain there all night. Keepers are on guard as a precaution against the beast possibly freeing herself and creating more havoc during the night.

The elephant was free for an hour, having broken from her keepers while being exercised, holding when passing the puma house. Fully a dozen women collapsed in the excitement, one being injured about the head when crushed against an iron railing by the panic-stricken mob.

FIRES SPREADING

New York State Threatened With Great Conflagration

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—New York state is threatened with fires which may equal those in 1903 when several lives were lost and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed, according to a statement made today by John K. Ward, counsel to the state forest, fish and game commission. The forest fires raging in the Adirondacks are spreading rapidly and if the present drought up state continues Mr. Ward says a very serious situation is sure to develop. In 1903 the fires extended over 100,000 acres of forest lands.

The fires now burning extend over 100,000 acres of land in the Adirondacks and nearly 100 acres in the Catskills. Appeals for help from the state authorities are being received daily at the office of the state forest, fish and game commission. Nearly all the fires are on land covered with brush and from which the lumber has been cut. In only a few places, it is reported, have they reached the timbered state lands, being confined principally to private lands. They are, however, rapidly encroaching on the timbered state lands.

PAIR CAPTURED HAD BEEN CHASED FOR WEEK BY DETECTIVES.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—A chase which occupied the better part of a week and in which about every female store detective in Boston participated, had its ending in the Central police court yesterday when Frankie Freedman of 6 Cobb street and Mary Horowitz of New York were arraigned in the second session before Judge Bolster and found guilty of shoplifting and an attempt to pick pockets of women in the large department stores.

resting the pair. The latter, together with Inspector Abbott, made the arrest in the market district Saturday evening.

Among those who have reported losses are Mrs. J. F. Brown, wife of Justice Brown of the superior bench; Mrs. M. A. Keefe of Middleboro, who lost $55 and her railroad tickets; Mrs. A. O. Sims and Mr. Richard T. Beals, who lost a black book, similar in shape to a pocketbook.

LADD AND WHITNEY CIRCLE

Ladd and Whitney circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., held a successful lawn party Thursday afternoon and evening at the home of Sister Agnes Mahaney, 132 Branch street.

A good old fashioned G. A. R. supper was served, after which singing, music and whist were enjoyed.

Those who assisted Sister Mahaney were: Sisters Clough, Peabody, Gilman and Boudnot. At the regular meeting of Ladd and Whitney circle last night considerable routine business was passed on. An invitation to a lawn party at Mrs. Eliza Clarke's, 107 Woodward avenue, Pawtucketville, Sept. 26, was accepted. There will be a meeting of the executive committee held at the residence of Mrs. Emerson, 512 Westford street, Sept. 26.

CHILD IS SAVED

But Big Auto Was Completely Wrecked

SOUTH ATTLEBORO, Sept. 10.—Little Dorothy Culbert, the 3-year-old daughter of John C. Culbert of Pawtucket, was close to death yesterday afternoon as were also her father and small brother, Linwood, but the little girl's escape was miraculous.

In a large touring car the party of three was moving through the streets of South Attleboro, when a swiftly moving electric car came along. Mr. Culbert saw that a collision was inevitable. He jumped from the auto with his boy in his arms, intending to rescue his daughter a second later.

But he had no time for the car struck the auto, hurling it a distance of 30 feet. The girl gave no scream and it was thought that she had been instantly killed.

When the distracted father rushed to the wrecked auto he found his child lying in the bottom of the machine, still and white. He stooped over to pick up what he thought was only the body of his little girl, when the eyes opened and a faint smile played around the little lips.

The shock of reaction was so great for Mr. Culbert that he fell in a state of collapse. But in a few minutes he recovered. None was injured.

The accident occurred at about 5 o'clock, on Washington street. The force of the collision was so great that the car itself was wrecked, while the auto was practically demolished.

BABY GIVEN AWAY

Little Marion Lewis Goes to State Board

The little baby found on the steps of the Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street, June 23, by Patrolman Simon Lane, has been turned over to the state board of charities. The little one has been named Marion Lewis.

When found it was thought that she would not live, but she was placed in a home where she received good care and now is enjoying the best of health.

GREATLY SHOCKED AT DEATH OF LIEUT. SELFIDGE

HALIFAX, N. H., Sept. 10.—Dr. Alex. Graham Bell, who is now on his way to Washington to attend an emergency meeting of the Aerial Experiment Ass'n. Sunday immediately on his arrival there and also to attend the funeral of Lieut. Selfridge. Dr. Bell was seen at Truro yesterday. The savant felt the shock of Lieut. Selfridge's death greatly and was so overcome he could hardly talk about it. Lieut. Selfridge's death will make no difference in the plans of the Aerial Experiment Association either at Hamptonport or Baddeck, he said. Flying machines Nos. 5 and 6, now being built on the Tetradical design at Baddeck, will be tested the middle of October, when Dr. Bell says matters of great moment to those interested in aeronautics will be developed.

INJURIES FATAL

WOMAN BURNED WHILE TRYING TO LIGHT GAS

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—While attempting to light the gas in a bedroom by means of a flaming newspaper last night, Mrs. Johanna Callahan, aged 57, of 94 Adams street, Dorchester, was so severely burned about the head and body that she died from the effects at 11 o'clock.

At the time of the accident her husband, Samuel Callahan, was sitting in the kitchen eating his supper. When his wife rushed into the room with her clothes ablaze, he grabbed a cotton quilt which he wrapped around her.

He then rushed across the street to the police station and asked that a doctor be sent for. The police ambulance was called out and was ready to take the woman to the hospital, but had to wait for the arrival of the doctor.

GRANITEVILLE FIRE

SCARED TOWNSPEOPLE AND BROUGHT THE FIRE FIGHTERS

A lively fire broke out in the dump near the Nashua & Acton railroad in West Graniteville early Thursday afternoon. The smoke was so dense that people in the vicinity thought the woods were afire. Fire warden J. A. Healey was notified and in a short while there was a gang of men at work. With the assistance of sand and water the fire was extinguished.

BANDIT STORY

Told to Police By a Brighton Man

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—A Brighton man whose name the Cambridge police refuse to reveal, ran into Station 2 yesterday afternoon claiming that a bandit was running amuck on River street, Cambridgeport.

According to his story he was driving down River street when a shot rang out and he fell from his team to the ground. Leaving his horse in the street he hastened to the police station. There was a great gash in his forehead.

Inspector Nelson took the man in charge and escorted him to the office of Dr. F. M. Gilman at 123 River street, where the wound was dressed. The doctor stated that in his opinion the wound was not occasioned by a bullet, but by a flying splinter.

TIMBER IN DANGER

Of Being Destroyed by the Forest Fires

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 10.—Smoke, completely obscuring the sun, overhung all this section yesterday. Reports from La Quin last night said that a number of fires had succeeded, by backfiring, in saving the 10,000,000 feet of trees of the Central Pennsylvania Lumber company. The same timber, however, is still in danger from fires appearing in another direction, and the men are now turning their attention to that fire.

The mountains all along the West branch of the Susquehanna river, are made by smoke, and at night the red glare can be seen for miles.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

The Automobile Club of America has asked the individual manufacturers and the different associations of motor car manufacturers in this country to send in their suggestions for a revision of the international racing rules at the congress of the world's recognized motoring organizations at Paris in October. The rules to govern the great speed events of next year are to be formulated at the meeting in Paris of representatives of the various national clubs that are members of the International Association of Recognized Automobile Clubs.

The Automobile club of Italy has come forward with a suggestion that the limit of bore for four cylinder engines be fixed at 130 millimeters, instead of in place of the 155 millimeters next year—that was the limit for this year. The Automobile Club of America has asked the manufacturers of this country to send in their ideas on the subject as soon as possible so the club's technical committee can prepare a consensus of opinion for the delegates of the club who will attend the international conference in the French capital.

Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, announced yesterday that R. W. Buckley, Jr., of this city had made the first formal entry of an American car for the club's grand prize race at Savannah on Thanksgiving day. The car is the 110 horsepower racer that the builders began making for the 1906 Vanderbilt cup race, but did not complete the time and which they had expected to enter in the 1907 Vanderbilt cup race that was not held. Thomas Williams has been named as driver for the car. E. Lillie of the Italia Import company said yesterday that three Italas instead of two would be entered for the grand prize race.

Twenty-nine cars containing about 100 men and women, arrived at the Automobile Club of America in West Fifty-fourth street, New York, last night, after completing the final day's travel of the two day mechanical efficiency motor car test and run around Long Island.

The first two cars to check in at the club were the 30 horse-power Stevens-Duryea car entered by A. G. Spalding & Bros., and the 60 horse-power Stevens-Duryea entered by the Stevens-Duryea company. Both cars arrived at the club at 6:30. They were followed one minute later by another Stevens-Duryea, a 35 horse-power car entered by the International Generator company, and a Zust car entered by the American Zust Motor company. After these the other cars came filing in at one minute intervals.

Outside of a little tire trouble there was but one accident in yesterday's run. The 18 horse-power Lancia entered by the Hol-Tan company, sheared its two to one gear out in the sand hills on the run from Montauk Point to Amagansett and was not checked in at any of the stations except the one at the Point. A few of the cars got stuck in the sand, but they eventually got started again and arrived at the checking stations on time.

As was the case in Wednesday's run many of the cars went off the route, which caused a great deal of confusion. Between Cold Spring Harbor and Oyster Bay one car took the wrong road and five other cars followed it. It was not until the six cars had gone about four miles out of the way that the drivers discovered their mistake and retraced their tracks. Four of the cars made up the time lost, but the other two arrived in Oyster Bay after their schedule time had elapsed.

The two women drivers, Mrs. Cuno

In a Ratner and Mrs. Ramsey in a Maxwell, completed the test on schedule time. The American Locomotive company's 16-horse power taxicab entered by William H. Seich company, which was the first car of its kind to enter a contest of this kind, finished the 300 odd miles in first-class condition, which was quite a surprise, for it was predicted that it would never cross the sand dunes separating Amagansett from Montauk. The cab went over the sand hills as well as any of the higher powered cars, and in some cases passed big cars that were stranded on the way.

The start from Montauk Inn, which is situated about six and a half miles from the Point, was made at 7:30 o'clock this morning and the first-class cars were required to cover the 145 miles to Flushing in 7 hours and 15 minutes running time, which is an average of about nineteen miles an hour. The second class cars had a schedule of 17 miles to the hour.

The first stop after leaving the inn was at the Montauk Point, which took the travelers to the extreme eastern point of Long Island. The lighthouse, which was erected while George Washington was president, had previously to yesterday been visited only by two motor cars, one of which arrived last Monday night after being lost on its way to the inn.

An inspection of the lighthouse was made, after which the machines drove under way for the nineteen mile drive across the sand dunes to Amagansett, the first checking place. The first stopping place was Riverhead, where the travelers attended the Suffolk County fair and paraded around the racetrack preceded by a brass band in two automobiles. After luncheon the cars were on their way again bound for Stony Brook.

After leaving Riverhead the machines struck some steep hills which they all negotiated with ease. A hill that took the breath away from some of the drivers was met with a sharp turn up a steep hill after a sharp right turn from a road running along the Long Island Sound. The incline was about a quarter of a mile long and more than one car felt the effects of traveling it. The famous Roslyn

Hill tested to the utmost the climbing ability of the cars.

A President Benedict of the Automobile club of Schenectady recently took the members of the road and bridges committee of the local board of supervisors on a trip of inspection over the roads to Albany and Troy. The committee were taken out in the hope of interesting them in arranging for sprinkling the state roads in the country with oil. The road between Schenectady and Albany has been sprinkled with oil and the road surface has been well preserved and the dust laid in consequence. The road between Schenectady and Troy has not been oiled, but the automobilists hope the supervisors will have this done in the near future.

Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, announced yesterday that three Benz racing cars had been entered for the club's grand prize race at Savannah on Thanksgiving Day, the German national organization having forwarded the signed entry blanks and checks to the Automobile club of America. The announcement sent out declared: "The Benz & Cie, Rheinische Gummiwerke Fabrik, Aktien-Gesellschaft, makers of the Benz car, have nominated Victor Hemery, Rene Hanriot and Fritz Eric as drivers."

The cars are those that competed in the Grand Prix race of the Automobile club of France over the Dieppe circuit in July in which Hemery finished 24 after driving for more than half the race with bits of glass in one eye as a result of a stone breaking his goggles. The engines have the maximum cylinder bore of 155 millimeters and each car weighs 1225 kilograms, or 2,699 pounds. Hemery won the second Vanderbilt cup race in 1905 with a Darracq. The entry of three cars was a surprise to Chairman Morrell, as former advice from Germany had told of only one car.

The Automobile club of Italy has also completed the entry of the three Fiat racing cars concerning the entry of which previous announcement has been made. The Fiat cars are to be driven by Nazario, Wagner and Ralph de Palma of Brooklyn, who holds the one mile track record of 31 seconds made with the Fiat Cyclone. The fact that the bureau of tours of the Automobile Club of America will take charge of all the racing cars in New York, clear them through the Custom House, deliver them in Savannah and return them to New York will greatly simplify the troubles of Europeans in getting their racing or touring cars down to Savannah.

Entries are also assured of thirteen more cars, although as yet they have not been completed by the international clubs of the respective countries. Two Renaults, a Motozole and two Lorraine-Dietrichs, a Motozole and a Clement-Bayard are to come from France. In addition to the three Fiat already entered Italy will be represented by two Italas and one Isotta-Fraschini, and Germany will have two of the three Mercedes cars that competed in the Grand Prix of the Dieppe circuit. All of the cars named competed in the French club's Grand Prix race and it was with one of the Fiat entered that Nazario averaged a bit more than 74 miles an hour in the Florio cup race recently in Italy. The Savannah Automobile club has announced that accommodations will be provided for 1200 visitors.

GIRL WHO ELOPED

With Coachman Gets $75,000 in Trust Fund

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The will of Giovanni P. Morosini, the late millionaire banker, and early colleague of Jay Gould, which was filed in the surrogate's court in this city yesterday, contains several distinct surprises.

In the first place, the estate is apparently smaller than was first supposed, and although there will be no way of knowing its exact size until the inheritance tax appraisers make their inventory, it is learned upon good authority that it will be below $5,000,000.

In the second place, the dead banker provided for the two children whom he practically disinherited during their early life, namely, Attilio, the younger son, who incurred his father's wrath by marrying Miss Mary Bond, and Victoria, the daughter who ran away and married the family coachman and who, ever since that time, has led a reclusive life away from the family mansion.

To the former he leaves a trust fund of $150,000; to the latter he leaves a trust fund of $75,000.

Oddly, to Giovanni, who has always lived at home and been close to his father, the same amount is left as to Attilio, namely, a trust fund of $150,000.

Amalia, the sickly daughter, and one of the father's favorites, is also left the sum of $150,000 in trust, and Giulia, the favorite daughter, who receives the bulk of the estate, is named as trustee of this particular fund. Her share will be $2,500,000 or $3,000,000—perhaps more.

The will of Mr. Morosini, who was supposed to have been many times a millionaire, gives no definite idea of his wealth, but, judging from the comparatively small amounts bequeathed, it appears either that his fortune was much smaller than commonly supposed, or that he has cut off all of his children but Miss Giulia with comparatively scant consideration. The exact value of the estate cannot be estimated until the appraisement, eight days from now, by the state appraiser.

Trust Fund For Eloping Daughter

An interesting feature of the will is that it creates a trust fund of $75,000 for the daughter Victoria, now Mrs. E. H. Schilling, who eloped with the family coachman some years ago, and who, it was supposed, the father had not forgiven.

SEC'Y WRIGHT

Comments on Aeroplane Accident

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—There is no doubt that the American people would applaud a generous, rather than a strictly technical attitude on the part of the government toward Orville Wright," said the Secretary of War Wright upon being asked for an expression as to what action the government would take in view of Thursday's fatal accident to the Wright brothers' aeroplane at Fort Meyer.

"Mr. Wright's achievements won the admiration and his misfortune the sympathy of the whole country, but until the war department has some say what course will be followed. It may be that should payment full or partial be adjudged an act of fairness under the contract the department would be without power to make it and an act of congress would be necessary."

"Under no circumstances would Mr. Wright accept any money from the government for his machine until he had fulfilled the contract requirements," said Charles Flint, the Wright brothers' business representative, when he learned that such a proposition was being discussed.

—The following is the text of a letter getting well and is not making any plans for the future just yet.

"The Wrights have several aeroplanes at Dayton, O. and I am sure they will make an effort to fulfill their contract with the government as soon as possible. I presume they could get an extension of time if they asked for it."

GIRL WAS SLAIN

Her Body Was Found in the Reservoir at Yonkers

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—With bruises on the face and the marks of fingers about the neck, showing where she had been choked, the body of Nellie Green, 17 years old, of Highland Park, who disappeared on Sunday last, was found yesterday in the Farfield reservoir, near Yonkers. There is every indication that the girl, who was last seen alive on Sunday about midnight, was murdered and her body thrown into the water within 200 yards of her home.

The case in many respects resembles the Hazel Drew mystery. It will take an autopsy today to determine whether the girl was dead or only stunned when she was thrown into the reservoir. There have been no arrests yet.

The last person to see her alive was Norman Follet, a young man of Yonkers, who has some prominence as a local ball player. He had taken Nellie to a party at the home of three girl friends who are employed in the Smith carpet factory, where the dead girl worked.

At 10 o'clock they started for Highland Park, which is reached by a sawmill road from Yonkers. They had reached a point in the road where a lane branches off and leads up a hill to the girl's home. They stood at this point talking, when her brother, a war veteran, came along. The night was a bright moonlight one, and as he came up to them he asked Nellie:

"Are you coming home?"

"Yes, right away," Follet says she replied.

Follet says the brother went up the lane, and he bade Nellie good-night, expecting her to overtake her brother before he reached the gate.

The brother went home and went at once to his room. The next morning it was discovered that the girl had not slept in her bed, and then it was remembered that no one had heard her come in.

A search was made for her, and Follet was once hunted up. He told a straightforward story about leaving her in the road and saving himself the additional walk by letting her follow her brother.

The case was considered peculiar, but there was no thought of foul play until yesterday, when the body of a young girl was found in the reservoir. "There were discolorations on the face, and about the neck were marks as though the girl had been strangled. The appearance of the body was such that a superficial examination caused the general impression to prevail that the girl had been killed and then thrown into the water."

As soon as it became known that a body had been found, the brother of the young woman went at once to her home. He identified it as that of his sister. A letter on a chain about his neck contained his photograph. He said when she left home she had a purse containing several dollars. This was not found.

It is considered improbable that the girl would have gone past her house and to the reservoir. The police are working on the theory that she was attacked in the lane after leaving her escort, and before she had a chance to call to her brother. They believe she was killed in the lane and her body carried to the reservoir to conceal the crime.

Corner Wisconsin of Westchester has taken charge of the investigation, and will have an autopsy made today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Jersey Central ferryboat Pittsfield was in midstream on her way from Liberty street to Communipaw last evening when a young woman tried to climb over the rail and was restrained by a woman passenger and deck hand Fitzgerald. She was hysterical and declared that she didn't want to live any longer.

Fitzgerald placed her in care of Policeman Brown when the ferryboat made fast and she was locked up in the Jersey City woman's prison as a disorderly person.

The woman described herself as Miss Annie E. Meier, 25 years old, a trained nurse, living at 97 Pershing street, Newark. She said she had had a quarrel with a young man who had carried her to the Bronx and was talking to her on the trip down the elevated. He left her at a downtown station, she said, and on the way to Jersey City she decided to end her troubles.

NEW CARDINAL

ARCHBISHOP BOURNE IS TO BE RAISED

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A Rome despatch to the Daily Mail says the pope is so pleased with Archbishop Bourne's conduct of the correspondence with Prime Minister Asquith in regard to the ceremonial procession of the host during the Eucharistic congress that he has decided to make the archbishop of Westminster a cardinal at the next consistory.

Until recently Archbishop Bourne was rather out of favor at the Vatican, where he was regarded as being too tolerant of modernism.

SIX BANDITS

GOT AWAY WITH MONEY OF FIFTEEN LABORERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Six masked men, heavily armed, robbed fifteen laborers employed by Brady Bros. on a highway at Beaver Lake, near Tug Bogies, N. J., yesterday. They forced the men to kneel and then rifled their pockets of sums ranging from $25 cents to $10. In all they secured about $150. One of the masked men asked if the contractors had not distributed the week's pay. To the response that Saturday was pay day, the other replied:

"Well, we will come back to see you tomorrow."

Peter Pamblico, an aged man, refused to give up his money and was badly poked with a bullet. His assailant threatened to cut his throat, but desisted when his comrades found Pamblico's money stowed away under a beam in the loft of the shanty. The robbers fled as quick as they had come, and there is no clue to their identity.

KRAPPE was arrested on September 8 as he was carrying a suit case containing $400 worth of opium from a drug store in Harlem, where he was employed. It was said that the prosecution had intended to let him go on a suspended sentence when he appeared in court yesterday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—John Krapple, 31 years old, a clerk, of 158 East 105th street, hanged himself in a cellar in the Tombs yesterday morning just before he was to be taken to court to be tried for grand larceny.

Krapple was in a cell on the fourth tier. At 6:30 o'clock he was seen by John Bruges, a keeper, who spoke to him. A few minutes after 7 o'clock, Michael Cummings, another keeper, entered the cell and found Krapple hanging from the knob that held his coat.

The prisoner had torn a sheet into strips and braided the strips. Then he tied it securely to the brace and put the other end around his neck. Dr. McGuire, the prison physician, who was summoned, said that the man had been dead for some time.

In the cell was found this note:

"I hope Jesus will forgive me. Even if I am set free I will go to the madhouse, and that is worse than death. God will judge me."

BECOMING SERIOUS

Raging Forest Fires Light Up Miles of Territory

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19.—With forest fires destroying much valuable property the enforced suspension of many industries, crops ruined, livestock suffering, river navigation at a standstill, and numerous small streams dry, a drought which has practically been unbroken for over two months, is fast assuming serious proportions in western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and West Virginia.

At night raging forest fires light up miles of territory while thousands of persons are fighting the flames. Meetings are held for which prayers for rain are offered.

At a number of places along the Ohio and West Virginia shores of the Ohio river there is not a sign of water.

Near Marietta, O., the large steamboat Tornado with a tow of barges for Pittsburgh is lying on a bed of gravel in the middle of what was the river. At many points small streams of water extend a few yards from either shore and boys after having crossed these can be seen playing ball in the middle of the Ohio river.

Telegraph and telephone companies having cables crossing the river are digging trenches in the river bed so the cables can be placed out of sight. Many industries along the river are suspended.

It is said of the streams now dry that it is the first time in fifty years that such a condition has existed. In many communities water is being sold.

38 CASES OF CHOLERA

MANILA, Sept. 19.—From 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. today 38 cases of cholera and 17 deaths have been reported in this city. Among the cases today are two Americans, H. H. Howard and W. A. Davis.

SHE RAN ASHORE A RECORD CROWD

Tugs Went to Six Masters Assistance

VINEYARD HAVEN, Sept. 19.—The six-master Eleanor Percy, coal-laden, bound from Newport News to Boston, ran ashore today two miles west of the Bell Buoy at Quick's hole at Vineyard sound. Two tugs went to her assistance during the afternoon.

The schooner went ashore during the morning when she ran into a bank of smoke and fog. Her predicament was not known, however, until the afternoon when her captain and two sailors in the ship's yawl boat came into port here to secure the aid of two tugs that will attempt to float the craft.

FUNERALS

PERKINS.—All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins, who tenderly consigned to its last resting place in the Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral left the late home of the deceased, 21 Mill street at 8:30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a high mass was celebrated by the Rev. John Burns. The choir rendered the Gregorian mass. At the offertory "O Salutaris" was rendered by Mr. P. P. Haggerty and at the close of the service Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered "Te Wipes a Tear From Every Eye." As the body was being borne from the church "De Profundis" was sung by the choir. Miss Lulu Ginty presided at the organ and the choir was under the direction of Mr. P. P. Haggerty.

There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances and among the most prominent were: Large basket of pinks, roses, asters and ferns with white ribbon inscribed "Wife" from the husband of the deceased; large wreath of roses, pinks, asters and ferns with pink ribbon inscribed "Sister" from Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes; large wreath of roses, pinks, asters and ferns from the girls of the amxminster finishing room of the Bigelow Carpet Co.; large spray of asters and ferns, Miss Frances A. Murphy; spray of white asters and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Balcom; bouquet of cut flowers, Misses Fannie and Blanche Witham. There were several other sprays from friends. The bearers were Messrs. Charles O'Neill, John McCann, John McGlynn, Frederick Robinson, George Thibault, Thomas E. Curry. The burial was in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery where the last sad rites of the Catholic church were read at the grave by the Rev. John Burns. The funeral was largely attended and under the direction of Higgins Bros. undertakers.

MEHAN.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Jane Mehan took place this morning from her late home, 1235 Gorman street, and was largely attended. Requiem mass was sung at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Smith. O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Muldoon, rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory, Mrs. Muldoon rendered, "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of the mass, the choir sang "De Profundis." The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. Fr. Smith officiating at the grave. The funeral was in charge of C. H. Molloy & Sons. The ushers at the house and church were Dr. Frank Brady, Dr. Mahoney, Dr. Jantzen and Dr. Roche of Tewksbury. The bearers were Dr. Hugh Walker and Messrs. James Duffy, Martin O'Meara and Theodore Towner. Assisting at the service within the sanctuary were Rev. Fr. Tiche, O. M. I. of Billerica; Fr. Flynn, O. M. I. of the Immaculate Conception church, and Mrs. Mullin and Heffernan of St. Peter's. The deceased was the mother of Dr. Joseph Mehan and was an old and highly esteemed resident. There were mourners present from Pawtucket and Providence, R. I., Everett and Boston. Among the floral tributes were the following: Mammoth standing wreath from family; large spray of white asters, from Rowlandson children; spray of purple and white asters from Harold and Mary Mehan; wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Downey; wreath of pinks and white roses, Dr. and Mrs. Conway; large wreath of pinks and white asters, from the Misses Marie and Quentin Gallagher; wreath of flowers, from the Misses Murphy.

Saw Final Round of Golf Play

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Sept. 19.—There was a record crowd at the links this morning to witness the play in the final and decisive round of the national amateur golf championship tournament. Jerome Travers, winner of the championship last year, won out yesterday over his veteran rival, Walter J. Travis, in such a contest as seldom has been seen in this country. Today he was called upon to defend his title against Max H. Behr of the Morris country club who yesterday defeated Fred Herreshoff, the hardest kind of a match. Both Behr and Travers have had long golfing experience and the meeting of the two men for highest golfing honors was expected to afford an unusually interesting exhibition of the game.

The weather was almost perfect and the links were at its best. Travers had the honor at the start, but he elicited his tee shot into the sand pit and in getting out his ball went into the rough. Behr had better luck and was within a foot of the hole in his third shot. The champion halved the hole, however, by running down a seven foot putt and then won the second hole in three to four.

Travers drove into the sand trap playing the third but got out cleverly. This hole was halved in par fours and the fourth in sevens.

Behr missed a short putt for a three on the fifth green and the hole was halved in four.

The sixth hole was halved in four and Behr won the seventh in five to six, securing the match. Travers sliced his drive but reached the green in 2. Behr missed a short putt but won out in 5 to 6.

Travers regained his advantage on the next hole, the eighth, winning out by 4 to 6. Behr had topped his drive at the tee and took four strokes to reach the green while Travers was one in two and holed out in two more.

The ninth hole also went to Travers 3 to 4. Travers had good direct and reached the ninth green on his second shot. Behr was on in two but overplayed a long putt and gave up the hole 4 to 3. Ninth hole Travers 2 up.

Travers was 5 up on Behr at the 15th hole, the conclusion of the first half of the match.

Travers won the 16th hole in 4 to 6. Behr topped his tee shot, the ball rolling into a bunker. The next hole also went to Travers in 4 to 5. Behr being short on his approach. On the short 12th hole Travers drove to the edge of the green. He was within a few inches of the cup on his second and holed out in 3 to 1. Behr overpitched the green. Twelfth hole—Travers 5 up.

The cards for the first half read as follows:

Travers	134	745	612-40
Behr	144	745	564-43
Travers	443	444	553-39-79
Behr	453	544	544-40-52

Behr played well, going to the 13th. He played poorly, however, while Travers holed out in 4 to 5. Travers found the sand pit on his drive from the 14th tee, but managed to halve the hole in 4. The 15th hole was halved in 4 and the 16th in 5.

Playing the 17th Behr made two fine shots, while Travers got into the rough on his second and Behr holed out in 4 to 5. Both made good drives for the 18th green. Travers made a fine attempt to hole out in two, but was short and at the same time Behr's ball just rimmed the cup. The hole was halved in par three. Eighteenth hole Travers 5 up.

Behr had the honor in the afternoon round, but pulled his drive in the 15th tee into the rough. He got well out in two but Travers was straight on his first two shots. Both missed long putts and the hole went to Travers 4 to 5.

Both drove to the green on the 24th, and the hole was halved in three. Travers 6 up.

NO CHANGE

IN ARRANGEMENT FOR REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—Sen. Foraker this afternoon said he knew nothing of any suggested change in the arrangements for the republican club meeting of next Tuesday in this city.

HE SHOT HIMSELF

Man Wrote That He Would End Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—After writing a letter to a girl telling her that he would be dead by the time she reached her Gustave E. Seels, 37 years old, a pressman, shot himself in the head in his room, at 400 East Fifth street, on Thursday night. Seels' death did not become known until yesterday morning, when an attractive looking young woman, called at the house and told Mrs. John Faytak that she had just received a letter from Seels saying that he was going to commit suicide.

Mrs. Faytak and the young woman went to Seels' room, where they found his body stretched on the floor. A revolver was in his right hand. The woman seemed about to faint, and asked Mrs. Faytak for a glass of water. Mrs. Faytak went to get it, but when she returned the girl was gone.

On the bureau in the room was a morning newspaper with the death notices marked, and a clipping from the Washington paper with this heading read, "Describes His Own Death and Gas Overcomes Him." The article told of the suicide of a Washington plutocrat, and across the clipping was written "My friend."

There was also a letter in a girl's handwriting thanking Seels for some favors and signed "Yours lovingly." The signature, however, had been erased. A notebook under the pillow contained the names of six young women.

The police were unable to discover the identity of the young woman who called at the house. According to Mrs. Faytak Seels had been out of work and owed her for several weeks' rent.

SEN. FORAKER

SAYS THAT HE RETURNED $50,000 DRAFT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—As part of the purchase money in an unsuccessful deal for the ownership of the Ohio State Journal at Columbus the draft for $50,000 mentioned in the John D. Archbold letter, made public last night in St. Louis by W. R. Hearst, was received by Senator Foraker and on the failure of the attempt to buy that paper the draft was returned and the incident forgotten, according to a statement given to the Associated Press by the senator here today. The senator declares in his statement that no one at any time over paid a cent or even suggested any such payment in consideration of anything he might do as a public man.

The statement is as follows: "The production by Mr. Hearst of the letter of Mr. Archbold to me dated Jan. 29, 1902, carrying a certificate of deposit enclosed for $50,000 and expressing the hope that the transaction may be safely concluded, illustrates how easily appearances may deceive."

When I first read the letter I could not recall that I ever had received any such letter or any such certificate. I at once called up my house in Washington where my letters of that date are on file and had a search made with the result that a proposed transaction was recalled that had gone entirely out of my mind.

A friend of mine—a newspaperman—informed me that he held an option on the Ohio State Journal to purchase it for $135,000. He was able himself to advance but a small amount of this help him. I did not have enough money to be of very material assistance but for the sake of having the paper in friendly hands I was willing to advance a part of it. I applied to a number of friends to see if they would not advance the balance of the amount. Among others he applied to the Standard Oil Co. They first agreed to loan to the newspaper company when purchased and re-organized $35,000 according to my present recollection, the same to be secured by stock of the newspaper company. Somebody who was expected to go into the enterprise dropped out and that made it necessary for all the others to increase their advances and thereupon the Standard Oil Co. did accordingly increasing their advance to $50,000 and enclosed as stated. It was thought at that time that the transaction would be immediately closed but there was a delay of a few days and at the end of that delay the whole transaction fell to the ground because the people had stepped in and purchased the property. Thereupon I returned the draft to the Standard Oil Co. I had no employment in the matter and never derived a cent of profit from it and never made any charge on account of it to anybody. I am at the disadvantage of not being able to produce the correspondence because it is in files in Washington. And I cannot get at it for the present but I am confident that when I am able to produce it, it will be found to be in exact accord with my statement.

CHEERED BRYAN

The Candidate Spoke at New London

NEW LONDON, Sept. 19.—Mr. Bryan arrived here at 12:45 and while the dining car was being attached to the train was escorted by former Governor Thomas Waller to the platform of another car, where he spoke for three minutes. The crowd was a very large and enthusiastic one and when Mr. Bryan was introduced Mr. Waller led a round of cheers.

Mr. Bryan in his speech attacked Mr. Taft for attending the republican platform and for his "evasive discussion" of it. Mr. Bryan said he stood on the democratic platform and if elected the people will know where he stands.

The train left for the east at 12:45. Accompanying Mr. Bryan from New Haven were Charles W. Comstock, chairman of the state central committee, former Governor Waller, C. T. Callahan of Holyoke, George W. Green of Rhode Island and several others.

BRUSH FACTORY

At Keene, N. H., Was Destroyed by Fire

KEENE, N. H., Sept. 19.—The brush handle factory of the Pierce Co. at North Keene was destroyed by fire today. The loss is estimated at $4000 with an insurance of $10,000. Seventy persons were thrown out of employment by the blaze.

GAINS WIPED OUT

New York Market Showed Marked Weakness Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Prices on the stock market showed marked weakness in the recession which marked today's trading. The opening had been fairly firm but before the end of the first hour all gains were wiped out and in the final half hour a heavy selling movement caused losses of two points or more in all the active issues.

MEN WERE BADLY BURNED

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—S. W. Kenyon, engineer, and Robert Green, firemen of the Harlem river freight on the New Haven road, were burned today, the latter seriously, when escaping steam blew flames from the fire box of the engine over them, as the train, south-bound, was approaching this city.

Both men were taken to the local hospital. After having his injuries dressed Kenyon left. Green is still there and expected to recover. Kenyon lives in Springfield, Mass., and Green at West Springfield. The freight proceeded with a new engine.

THE BIG MAURETANIA

Met With Bad Accident While in Mid-Ocean

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—For more than an hour last Wednesday the great turbine Mauretania with all her cabins filled with frightened passengers, rolled and pitched helplessly in the trough of the storm tossed seas in mid-ocean with waves constantly breaking over her decks. She had run into the storm hours before but had been kept under headway until one of her propeller blades flew off with a crash that alarmed everyone on board. So tremendous was the force of the blow which the loosened propeller dealt the ship that the whole middle section of the steamer seemed to rise, the flooring buckled until the tacks from the carpet were hurled against the ceilings and passengers were thrown about the cabin. The engines were stopped at once and the big ship losing headway began to wallow in the trough of the seas. The intense excitement did not subside until the steamer started once more on her way.

An examination disclosed that the compartment adjoining the propeller shafts was filled with water. It is believed that the detached propeller blade stove a hole in the steamer's bottom.

The severe weather continued throughout the voyage and yesterday when Sandy Hook was reached the steamer ran into a fogbank which compelled her to lie at anchor. She came into her dock today.

GEN. HAINS HIS LEG BROKEN

Visits His Two Sons in Jail John Carey Met With Serious Accident

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Gen. Peter C. Hains called yesterday at the Queens county jail to see his sons, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., and T. Jenkins Hains, who are accused of the shooting of William E. Annis at the Bayview Yacht Club on August 15. Gen. Hains was accompanied by Dr. L. S. Manson, a nerve specialist of 616 Madison avenue, Manhattan. He remained with his sons two hours while Dr. Manson stayed with the prisoners three hours and forty-five minutes.

After the visit Dr. Manson said that he would report to John F. McIntyre, counsel for the defense, that Capt. Hains' mental condition was clearing up and that he expected that he would soon be in condition to consult with counsel. The reason the conference was so long, he said, was that Capt. Hains' statements were somewhat disconnected, and at times the captain seemed at a loss to find the correct word to express his thoughts. However, the doctor considered the captain's mental condition on the mend.

In an interview yesterday morning District Attorney Ira G. Darrin of Queens county dispelled the expectation that the case against the Hains brothers would be the first to be presented to the extraordinary grand jury which will be charged by Justice Garment in the morning with the case against the Hains brothers. There are sixty-five other cases, among them being six murder cases, which will probably take precedence over the Hains case.

Furthermore Mr. Darrin said he was prepared to present the Hains case to the grand jury tomorrow morning. He will get it before them, however, in the two weeks allotted to the grand jury before the opening of the regular term on October 5. Mr. Darrin hopes to have the case tried in the following term, although it may go over into the new year.

LOWELL MEN TO ATTEND FAIR IN NEW YORK

William B. Ready, D. S. O'Brien and Thomas J. Johnson start tomorrow evening for New York where they will attend the big banquet at the Astor house given by the Olympic Athletic association to the Irish American Athletic club of New York. At the banquet will be the world's champion of the Olympiad, Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan will also be present at the banquet which will take place Monday evening.

CARS TIED UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Broadway pedestrians were treated to an electric display last night that threw green, white and blue flares over Times Square and tied up the street car traffic from 8:30 to 10:30. A workman in an excavation under the surface railroad tracks dropped a wrench so that it once ended on the channel rail and the other end on a stray piece of the old Broadway cable.

All the cars in the section affected stopped and presently all the cars between Times Square and Forty-second streets were enveloped in flames and smoke. The passengers started to jump off into the street excavations. The police prevented any accident. When the old bit of cable had burned up the burned out car fuses were replaced and traffic was resumed.

LOWELL MAN

ARRESTED IN NASHUA ON CHARGE OF BEGGING

TAFT MEN SORRY

That They Made Up With Senator Foraker

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—The recently celebrated "Taft-Foraker" reconciliation has been admitted to have been a mere "business" transaction. Senator Foraker has issued a public statement that he acted as attorney within legitimate lines and with the full knowledge of the public. He said that the people say that the attorney defense is a "sham" and that they never knew before that the senator was a Standard Oil representative.

Three members of past legislatures said yesterday that while they had seen general report that Mr. Foraker was a corporation attorney, it had not come to their knowledge that he was a Standard Oil lobbyist.

To friends Senator Foraker said that he believed he could defend his record, but that he would not do so. He said he is obliged to speak with Mr. Taft before the national league of republican clubs here next week, was embarrassing Mr. Taft. He said that if that were true he would withdraw from the meeting if Mr. Taft should ask him to do so.

It is certain that Mr. Taft will speak. It could not be said last night, however, what form the elimination of Foraker would take. There was a crowd on the Taft door at headquarters all day yesterday. The candidate appeared for an hour in the morning and then returned to his home with the statement that there was no opportunity to think where so many wished to see him. When asked for comment on the letters between Foraker and Archibald, he said:

"You may say that I have nothing to say, if you like." Then he went home. Soon after Senator Foraker issued his statement.

Self-Approach Now
The saddest part of the affair to the Taft managers is the fact that if they had "made up" with Foraker, they would now be in a position to smile and enjoy the situation.

The making up was the work of Gen. Corbin, retired, and Gen. Kiefer, representative in congress, who, the Taft people now think, should have been put long ago. They brought Foraker and Taft together at Toledo with a flourish. The political prophecy in Cincinnati since the publication of the letters and Foraker's admission is that the next legislature will be democratic and that a democratic U. S. senator, either Mr. E. Ingalls or Ex-Gov. Campbell, will be elected.

The liquor fight in the state had put the legislature in doubt before this development, and republicans admit that the new weapon in the hands of the democrats is likely to be effective. The feeling about Mr. Taft's prodigious expressed by a local republican of prominence, who wants his name on the ticket, because he wishes to keep in the game.

"Old dog Tray," he said, "was a wise guy alongside this retired general outfit that has been steering Taft to Foraker. Why, the judge knows Cox and Foraker from the ground up. He ought to have known that something like this would happen. Doesn't the Bible say, 'He who touches pitch shall be defiled.' Sure. And if he doesn't throw this Cox person hard now right off he'll get another jolt."

MORE LETTERS HE'S GOING AWAY

From Standard Oil Co. Lowell Pastor Accepts Call to Norwood

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 18.—William R. Hearst, in a speech last night, answered the reply which Sen. Foraker made yesterday to the letters read by Mr. Hearst in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday night.

Mr. Hearst said in part:
"Mr. Foraker replies in characteristic republican manner. He admits that he did serve Standard Oil, and is proud of it. His statement is based on letters I read last night. If he had seen the letters I am going to read tonight he would have denied the whole matter."

The first letter follows:

"26 Broadway, New York, January 27, 1902.
"My Dear Senator: Responding to your favor of the 25th it gives me pleasure to hand you herewith certificate of deposit for $50,000 per our understanding. You state the conditions correctly and I trust the transaction will be successfully consummated."

"Very truly yours,
"J. D. Archibald."

"Hon. J. B. Foraker, Washington, D. C."

The second letter as read by Mr. Hearst was as follows:

"26 Broadway, New York, Feb. 25, 1902.
"My Dear Senator: I venture to write you a word relative to the bill introduced by Senator Jones of Arkansas, known as S. 469, and intended to amend the act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, etc., introduced by him December 4."

"It really seems as though this bill is very unnecessarily severe and even vicious. It is not much better to test the Sherman act before resorting to a measure of this kind. I hope you will feel so about it and I will be greatly pleased to have a word from you on the subject. The bill is, I believe, still in committee."

"With kind regards,
"Yours very truly,
"John D. Archibald."

"Hon. J. B. Foraker, Washington, D. C."

The bill referred to in this letter is the one introduced by Senator Jones of Arkansas, in the United States senate. Consequently Mr. Foraker's statement does not convince when he said the correspondence had nothing to do with any legislation in congress.

CHAS. J. GLIDDEN

Says Smoke May Prevent Balloon Trip

Rev. Alfred Lindblom, pastor of the Swedish Baptist church in Olney street, has accepted a call to the Swedish Baptist church in Norwood, Mass. Rev. Lindblom will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday and will preach in Norwood the first Sunday in October.

A student from Sweden has been called to fill the pulpit made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Lindblom, but no answer has as yet been received from the student.

Mr. Lindblom came to Lowell two years ago from Newark, N. J., and has been very successful in his work here and the church has prospered under his administration. His people are sorry that he must go but Norwood is a much bigger church and they wish him success in his new field.

CHAS. J. GLIDDEN

Says Smoke May Prevent Balloon Trip

The smoky haze that has been hanging over Lowell for the last few days is said to be due to forest fires in Maine and New Hampshire, especially Maine. Forest fires have been raging for days and a St. John, N. B. paper says that the smoke from forest fires in Maine has settled over that city.

Unless the haze clears away the balloon ascension scheduled for next Tuesday will be postponed. Charles J. Glidden had planned to make an ascension from this city next Tuesday and here is what he has to say about it:

"When the party of which I was one, made an ascension from Nashua Thursday, I was much surprised after reaching the upper air to find that it was impossible to see ahead more than three miles at most owing to the smoky haze which obscured the atmosphere."

"If such conditions prevail next Tuesday when I had planned to make an ascension from Lowell, it will be necessary to postpone the event, for the haze makes such a trip very dangerous, so dangerous that the others who will make the trip and myself would not care to face it."

"It will be unfortunate if this is so, and I trust that by that time a change in any wind which may prevail will effect a clearing of the air. But there has been little wind lately, and the smoke will continue to hang over the country unless weather conditions change."

THE SELECTMEN

Indicted on Charge of Obstructing Highway

YORK HARBOR, Me., Sept. 18.—The controversy between the county commissioners and the selectmen of York, Harry H. Horton, J. P. Bragdon and Henry S. Bragdon, in relation to the closing of the new bridge across York island, has assumed a new phase.

It was learned yesterday that at the instance of the county commissioners, County Attorney Hobbs had caused the selectmen to be indicted at the session of the supreme court being held at Alfred on the charge of obstructing the highway.

Their counsel, George Haley of Biddeford, it is stated, has agreed to present his clients before the court today, without the resort to a rapier writ.

Since the war department ordered the bridge to be opened so as to not obstruct navigation the bridge has been chained up.

Several hearings have been held before the board of county commissioners in relation to the petition of a number of prominent taxpayers to have the bridge and highway opened, but in each case the commissioners have reserved their decision.

The news that the county commissioners had secured an indictment came as a surprise.

United Party Tendered the Candidate a Brilliant Reception

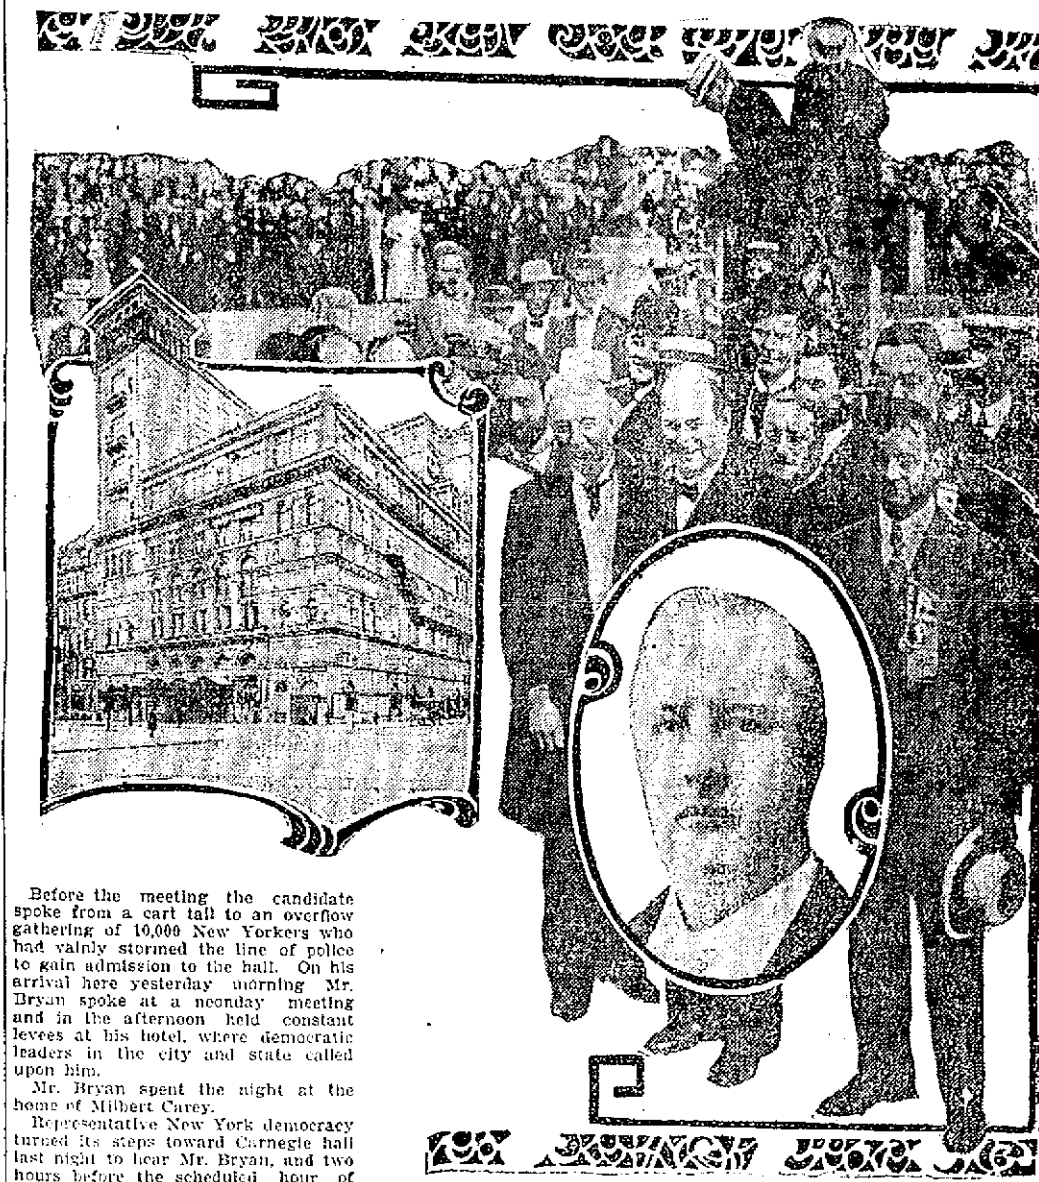

Tammany Turns Out en Masse to Greet Him — The Dangers Threatening the Country From Republicans Was His Subject

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Democracy's presidential campaign in Greater New York began last night when William J. Bryan, at a mass meeting under the charge of Tammany Hall, spoke before enthusiastic thousands who filled Carnegie hall and overflowed into the streets. The ovation accorded to the presidential candidate was a brilliant climax to a day in which a united party paid Mr. Bryan a continuous reception. Last night thousands turned out to see, hear and shout for the candidate.

Mr. Bryan spoke for over an hour on "Republican Tendencies" at Carnegie hall, and for more than 10 minutes his audience of 3500 applauded his appearance on the platform.

believe that there should be a department of labor with a cabinet officer at its head. Second, we believe that labor should be taken out of the operation of the trust law. Third, we believe that an industrial dispute should not be sufficient cause for the issuance of an injunction. Fourth, we believe in trials by jury in cases of indirect contempt."

Mr. Bryan touched on the subjects of guarantee of bank deposits, tariff reform, the elimination of private monopoly, also the extravagance of the republican administration, centralization of power and giving the Philippines the promise of independence as soon as they establish a stable government. Mr. Bryan ended by saying that he

Before the meeting the candidate spoke from a cart tall to an overflow gathering of 10,000 New Yorkers who had vainly stormed the line of police to gain admission to the hall. On his arrival here yesterday morning Mr. Bryan spoke at a noonday meeting and in the afternoon held constant levees at his hotel, where democratic leaders in the city and state called upon him.

Mr. Bryan spent the night at the home of Milbert Carey.

Representative New York democracy turned its steps toward Carnegie hall last night to hear Mr. Bryan, and two hours before the scheduled hour of the meeting a triple line of ticket-holders stood in a column several city blocks in length. To handle the crowd Inspector Walsh had 200 policemen stationed on the blocks immediately before the auditorium, and only those who had tickets for the lower part of the hall and a few hundred early comers, who quickly filled the upper galleries, were permitted within the police lines. The galleries were soon choked with the gathering throng and the police at 7 o'clock shut the doors leading to the upper part of the hall.

Two blocks from the hall hundreds and soon thousands stormed vainly at the police lines. Tammany Hall had sent out word to attend, and the faithful needed no other bidding. From all parts of the city the throngs came in ever-increasing numbers, satisfied to catch a glimpse of Mr. Bryan as his carriage, under escort of police, threaded its way through the cheering throng.

Mr. Bryan was entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. Carey on West 51st street before the meeting, and was escorted to the hall by a committee of Tammany Hall leaders. The candidate returned to Mr. Carey's house to spend the night after the meeting was over.

One of the greatest ovations ever given a presidential candidate in this city was given Mr. Bryan last night, when he was seen approaching Carnegie hall in a big red automobile. The crowd of 10,000 or more persons who could not gain admission to the hall waited in the streets to catch a glimpse of Bryan, and as soon as he was sighted the people began shouting. The candidate was taken to a flag-draped cart and from it he made a brief speech. He was cheered repeatedly, especially when a man in the crowd tried to argue with him and Bryan made a reply.

"I can speak to you only briefly, as I have a long speech to make inside," said Bryan. "Let me call your attention to a marked difference between the republican platform and ours. The republican platform is different, especially in not outlining necessary legislation. Our platform tells the public what we think ought to be done. We take the people into our confidence. Thus we show not only our faith in the merits of our policies, but also in the intelligence of the voters. The republican party, however, either lacks faith in the merits of whatever their policies might be, or it lacks faith in your intelligence."

"Now there are four propositions as to labor for which we stand. First, we was encouraged to believe that New York will be added to the democratic column.

Refuses Categorical Answer

A man who claimed to be a union ironworker asked Mr. Bryan if it were true that when he was in congress he had used the expression that workmen were "a lot of beggars."

"I speak as a representative of organized labor," the man added.

"No, you do not," shouted Mr. Bryan. "My record is well enough known so that no representative of organized labor would have to ask me such a question."

"Did you or did you not use that expression?" insisted the man.

Bryan answered: "I shall not undertake now or any other time to answer any and every statement that may be made by those who are trying to help the republican party, until they get an endorsement from the republican party or its representatives."

Mr. Bryan then left the cart and went into Carnegie hall.

Tammany Leaders There

When Sec. Smith of Tammany Hall called the mass meeting to order every seat and every inch of space was filled, and the police ordered the doors closed. It was an enthusiastic audience, and when Chairman Herman Ridder was introduced the crowd applauded vociferously. Mr. Ridder spoke on tariff reform. With Mr. Ridder on the platform were Congressman Sulzer, Ex-Corporation Counsel Dolan, President of the Board of Aldermen McGowan, and many other prominent Tammany leaders.

Mr. Dolan followed Mr. Ridder with a speech, choosing as his topic the democratic slogan of this campaign, "Shall the people rule?"

Congressman Sulzer spoke very briefly and brought forth cheers when he announced that Mr. Bryan would speak in Madison square garden in this city Oct. 28.

Outburst for Bryan

While Congressman Sulzer was speaking Mr. Bryan and his party stepped from an entrance upon the stage. It was the Bryan demonstration of eight and twelve years ago. Men leaped to their chairs and yelled and shouted while the band played fan-fares and lively tunes. Minutes passed and still the sound of applause continued.

Chairman Ridder's voice was lost as he briefly introduced the democratic candidate. The band played "America" as Mr. Bryan rose to his feet, while the crowd cheered only the louder. When quiet was restored, after a 10-minute outburst of enthusiasm, Mr. Bryan began his speech.

Ranked behind the candidate on the platform were National Chairman Mack, Vice-Chairman Rudolph, Gov. Jennings of Florida, Daniel F. Cahalan, Nathan Straus, E. L. Gotth and many others.

Extravagant Expenditures

Mr. Bryan took as his subject "Republican Tendencies." He said in part:

"Parties are to be measured not merely by the things they do, but by their tendencies. Since it is easier to remedy evils in the beginning than after they are full grown, it is important to know the tendencies of parties as well as to know how far they have gone. I desire to night to call attention to some of the tendencies of the republican party."

"Take, for instance, the matter of extravagance in expenditures. The tendency of the republican party is to increase the expenditures of the government out of all proportion to the increase in the population. At the first session of the present congress their appropriations exceeded $1,000,000,000. This is twice the appropriations of a session of the first congress, which was the highest known up to that time. The appropriations of the last session exceeded the appropriations of the preceding year by $50,000,000. An increase of almost 10 percent—showing that in matters of appropriations the republican leaders are hurrying on at an accelerated pace. And it must be remembered that this enormous increase in appropriations is at a time when there is a deficit of $50,000,000 for the fiscal year. What would be the pace if they were not threatened with a lack of income? The increase in the number of office-holders is likewise enormous. The republican attempt to excuse their unparalleled appropriations by saying that new work is being undertaken, but this is not a sufficient answer. The balance between state and nation be maintained."

"Fourth. In its advocacy of imperialism the republican party tends to ignore all constitutional restraints, for it administers a government in the Philippines Islands without constitutional limitations. The ignoring of the constitution in dealing with the Philippines tends to the weakening of the constitution at home and tends also to disregard of constitutional principles of government."

Back From Baltimore
Rev. Dr. O. C. Wallace, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, returned to Lowell yesterday afternoon from Baltimore, where he had been for the past few days conferring with the society of the First Baptist church of Baltimore in regard to a call to that place. To a reporter last evening Dr. Wallace stated that nothing definite had been reached in the matter as yet.

Illustrated Lectures
Rev. George F. Kennegott will give his third course of six illustrated lectures in the First Trinitarian Congregational church on six successive Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock, beginning Oct. 13. The subjects are as follows: Oct. 13, Northern Italy, including Venice, Milan, Italian Lakes; Oct. 20, Switzerland, including Zermatt, Geneva, Interlaken; Oct. 27, Switzerland, including Interlaken to Lucerne, Bern, Zurich; Nov. 3, Southern Germany, including Munich, Nuremberg, Dresden; Nov. 10, Northern Germany, including Leipzig, Berlin, Potsdam; Nov. 17, the Rhine and Paris. The lectures are the result of Mr. Kennegott's tour in 1907, and each lecture will be illustrated by about one hundred and fifty choice views, made by the best artists in Europe, some of them beautifully colored and many of them snapshots. The scenery of Northern Italy, Switzerland and Southern Germany is especially attractive. The proceeds of the lectures will be for the benefit of the church debt.

NEW SKIN REMEDY

STOPS ITCHING

Skin Troubles, Aggravated by Hot Weather, Quickly Cured.

When it is known that poslam, the new skin remedy, will stop the torturous itching attending eczema with first application and bring immediate relief and comfort to sufferers from all skin troubles which are aggravated by hot weather, its merit will be instantly appreciated. On the tender skin of chafing infants, poslam may be used with soothing and beneficial effects. It is applied externally, and its remarkable healing powers begin their work at once.

All skin diseases, including eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. Occasional applications of poslam, in small quantities, will quickly banish pimples, blives, blackheads, blotches, and will relieve and cure itching feet, sealy eczema, humors, etc. A special 50-cent package has been adopted for those who use poslam for these minor troubles. This, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at Falls & Burkinshaw's, Carter & Sherburne's and other leading drug stores, in Lowell.

An experimental supply of poslam may be obtained free of charge, by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

SPEAKER CANNON

Has a Rival in Person of H. C. Bell

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Widespread interest attaches to the race of Henry C. Bell in the Eighteenth Illinois district against Joseph C. Cannon, the veteran speaker of the house of representatives, for the latter's seat in congress. Mr. Bell, who lives at Marshall, Ill., and is a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted when he was fifteen years of age, has stumped the district from border to border, laying particular stress upon the injunction plank of the democratic platform. Mr. Cannon suffered his only defeat in his district in 1890 when he was opposed by Samuel T. Bussy.

Cousin of Victim of Aeroplane Tragedy

Harold Selfridge, of the Lowell Textile company in Western avenue, is a cousin to Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, who was killed in an aeroplane at Fort Myer Thursday afternoon. Lieutenant Selfridge's father and Harold Selfridge's father were brothers. Harold Selfridge is a member of the Yorick club.

HEART FAILURE

CAUSED DEATH OF YOUNG MAN UNDER ARREST.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—John Horgan, 20 years old, of 79 Dorchester street, South Boston, dropped dead from heart failure yesterday morning while under arrest at police station 6, charged with having stolen $5 from Suey Lung, a Chinese laundryman.

Young Horgan is said to have never before been accused of dishonesty, and his friends were confident of his innocence in the present case. The evidence was circumstantial, and the young man gave himself up to the police as soon as he heard a warrant had been issued for him.

After a sleepless night at the police station, Horgan dropped dead while tidying himself up in the washroom, preparatory to going to court.

CAN HE STOP TALKING?

Mr. Bryan is by no means desirous that the president should stop talking for Taft. On the contrary, if the president keeps on it will not be necessary to put any democratic orators on the stump, for Roosevelt single-handed will make Bryan's election a certainty.

It is apparent that the leaders have managed to restrain the president's garrulity as he has not made any break since he demanded the nomination of Hughes in New York and had his long endorsement of Taft published. In all probability he will now insist that Taft will preach "his policies" from the stump.

THE GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESSION.

The fight for lieutenant governor on the republican side in this state puts all other contests in the shade. This is because of the right of succession which makes the office a sure stepping stone to the gubernatorial chair. This is the only state in which such a custom obtains, and it would be a great relief to the public as well as to the republican party if this custom were upset so that the higher office would not be sought through the lower. The custom bars the door against the selection of the best and ablest men available at the moment. It should offer a good opportunity for the election of a strong man as governor on the democratic side. It is evident that a man may pull through as candidate for lieutenant governor who would never be selected as candidate for governor, and thus the injury is done.

THE IRISH OUTLOOK.

The Irish leader, Hon. John E. Redmond, and Joseph Devlin, M. P., come to this country as envoys to attend the national convention of the United Irish League of America to be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Redmond speaks in the most hopeful terms of the outlook for home rule, and well he may, since the British house of commons has decided by a vote of two to one that home rule is the only practical solution of the Irish question.

It may be said that Redmond is but carrying out the policy adopted by O'Connell and transformed to a potent force through the able leadership of Parnell, but now becoming more potent than ever in wringing reforms from England.

If we are to base the estimate of a leader's success upon what has been actually accomplished, then we must acknowledge that John E. Redmond has won far more reforms for Ireland than did either O'Connell or Parnell.

In justice to O'Connell, however, it must be said that it was his prodigious work in the face of enormous odds that made the successes of Parnell and Redmond possible.

In view of the acts restoring the land to the people, rooting out the landlords, improving the homes of the peasants, relieving congestion in impoverished districts, and lastly, the Irish university bill, who can doubt Mr. Redmond's word when he says that home rule is an absolute certainty in the near future.

Under the able and astute leadership of Mr. Redmond, the galaxy of brilliant men who constitute his party, can be relied upon to make the most of every opportunity to benefit Ireland, and this they have been doing with great success for the past decade.

As the progress has been steady, we might say almost during the last two decades, Ireland's condition is now vastly superior to that of ten or fifteen years ago.

This progress will be continuous, and now that the university question, the land question and various other questions affecting the condition of the people, are all settled, the way is clear for home rule, and it will be made a leading issue in the next parliament.

Should it be endorsed by the people in a general election the lords would not dare oppose it, because they would next expect a popular mandate calling for the curtailment of their own powers.

If the Liberals flunk on their pledges once more, the Tories may do as they have done on many previous occasions, viz., win popularity and a longer lease of official life by taking up the Liberal program and putting through some of the leading reforms then outlined. Whether it be the Liberals or the Tories that grant home rule is immaterial to Redmond and his party.

The Irish party will always stand ready to use its power and influence in support of the party that will grant most to Ireland.

Mr. Redmond represents the whole Irish people. He is head of the movement adopted by the people for the advancement of the Irish cause. Those who oppose him and his party oppose the Irish people, and the national movement by which they have won one reform after another until little remains to give Ireland complete autonomy.

On the one side are some who say the policy of the Irish party is too aggressive, on the other are those who say it is not aggressive enough. Both these elements are opposing national unity by which alone the best results can be obtained. The critics, the chronic croakers and the impractical visionaries that deal with things imaginary, are all retarding the progress of the Irish nation, all helping the Tories, the Unionists and others to obstruct the path of Ireland's progress.

SEEN AND HEARD

John Delaney, the tailor, says the thing that preys on a republican's mind must be pretty hungry.

The way that some musicians murder music, it's little wonder that tunes haunt them.

The modern girl does not want you to go on your knee and beg a kiss. She wants you to stand up and be practical.

John Turner says it is easy to join in the shouting after the victory is won and John is an aspirant for mayoralty honors.

It was only last night that five women were discussing one man, and they certainly allowed that he was the goods. "It is very easy," said one of them, "to be good natured around the house when everything goes smoothly, but Mr. — can keep sweet and help keep the children interested while Mrs. — is taking an afternoon off."

All the trips that the genial starter in Merrimack square, Walter H. Hickey, has been taking to Nashua were not altogether in the interest of the company. A fair lass at Nashua beckoned to Walter and now the marriage engagement of Mr. Walter H. Hickey to Miss Eleanor Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Galvin of Nashua, is announced.

WITH LOVE ALONE

I would not want to go with song
If I could not take love alone;
I would not want to stroll and stray
Around the blue dream of the day,
If she were not, with her sweet eye,
My comrade, tripping gaily by.

I would not want to strive and climb,
To feel my reed and spin my rhyme,
To hunt the hops of life's sweet sweet,
The silver dews of fairy street,
Were love not here to take my hand
And with her laughter ring the land.

I would not have this hope that fills
My heart with strength to climb the hills,
This eye that loves the green delight
Of fields and woods and star of night,
If love were not before me dancing,
With sweetheart lips and cheeks entrancing!

I would not want to wake and rise
Were she not there with shining eyes;
I would not want to rest at noon
Were she not there to rest at noon;
I would not want to sleep at night
Were she not there my soul to keep!

PEOPLE OF NOTE

John M. Wolf of Hanover, York county, Pa., began on last Monday at the age of 76 in his fifty-eighth school term at Mount Pleasant, two and a half miles south of Hanover. He opened the school with thirty-five pupils, which number will soon increase considerably. The squirrel walks to and from school daily, aggregating five miles with ease, returning with as much buoyancy as a man of 45 years. During the fifty-seven school terms taught by Squire Wolf he has taught twenty-two local normals, the object being to prepare students for the profession of teaching. 175 of these students entered the profession, and many of them are teaching today, while others are ministers, lawyers, physicians and business men.

When the British association paid its visit to South Africa three or four years since the eminent seismologist, Professor John Milne, and the celebrated Cambridge pathologist, Professor Sims Woodhead, took clubs and balls to the Victoria Falls on the Zambesi river, and there the man of earthquakes established a noble record by being the first to drive a ball across the falls, repeating a very excellent carry of a hundred and sixty yards.

A visit to George Eliot's country is among the numerous festivities with which the members of the Law society will relieve the business program of their coming meeting at Birmingham. The pleasure of the visit is not likely to be disturbed by a recollection of the hard things which are said of the law and lawyers in some of George Eliot's novels. "Mr. Tulliver was a strictly honest man and proud of being honest, but he considered that in law the ends of justice could only be achieved by employing a stronger knave to frustrate a weaker. Law was a sort of cockfight, in which it was the business of the injured honesty to get a game bird with the best, pluck and the strongest spurs." But the author of "The Mill on the Floss" is careful not to put forth Mr. Tulliver's views as her own. She describes his conclusion that "rats, weevils and lawyers were created by old Harry" as "questionable."

Lawyers have been known to wonder how George Eliot contrived to be so accurate in the legal details of her novels. The explanation is that she was wont to consult Mr. Frederic Harrison, who before he devoted himself to literature was a practicing member of the Chancery Bar. In the construction of the intricate legal plot in "Felix Holt," she had, in addition to Mr. Harrison's, the help of the late Lord Herschell, then a barrister of some six years standing. Another great lawyer—as to an incidental point of law in "Daniel Deronda." The attorney-general's opinion, printed in italics in one of the later chapters of "Felix Holt," was written entirely by Mr. Harrison.

Other famous novelists have been not less prudent than George Eliot in obtaining expert advice as to legal difficulties in their stories. Dickens employed an author of repute as well as a lawyer. Bulwer Lytton is said to have paid a substantial fee for legal opinion on the details of the lawsuit in "Night and Morning," but the novelist who pays for expert assistance would appear to be less fortunate than he who obtains it gratuitously, for in "Night and Morning" which is an unauthorized copy of a lost register, which the court would ever have admitted in evidence, is treated as conclusive proof of a marriage.

Fresh Clams Every Day

At the Lowell Inn. Fresh fish direct from the Boston wharves. Lobsters fresh from the traps. Meats fresh and whole. Call and see us. LOWELL INN, busiest place in Central street.

Jersey or up in Westchester maybe, are shipped to him as carefully as if they were the most fragile of jeweller's trinkets. They are kept in big flat-topped wet grasses and taken out to be put in small pasteboard boxes for customers. Saturday afternoon provides a crush at the old man's stand invariably, the fishermen being anxious to get back for their Sunday fun.

This corps, which was authorized by the last congress, is similar to that which did such effective work during the Spanish-American war in hospitals and on the "Relief," and its permanent establishment in the navy is a source of gratification to the medical officers of that service, who realize that there are many times in peace and war when the hand of a woman, especially a trained woman nurse, is indispensable to the sick and wounded. Miss Hasson is already installed in a newly created division of the bureau of medicine and surgery at the navy department, and at the Naval Medical School. After a competitive examination, to occur very soon, twenty women will be selected to take a preliminary course at the Naval Medical Hospital school. After taking the course there for six months they will again be examined and those who pass will be sent to one of the eighteen Naval Medical Hospitals on the coasts of the United States. From time to time thereafter other examinations will be held, and within a few years the corps will number about a hundred and fifty highly trained women nurses, who will be under the command of the surgeon general and prepared for any sort of duty. Several of these women will be sent to the United States naval hospitals in Yokohama, the Philippines and Honolulu, while others will be stationed in the United States.

Miss Hasson's selection to head the new corps is wholly due to her record of exceptional merit and almost a lifetime spent in the care of the sick. Her record during the Spanish-American war and since that time is equalled by few other women in the annals of the war department, and so strikingly did time pass for her that she was practically the only name considered for the appointment of a head for the Women's Nurse corps.

Although a Baltimorean by birth, Miss Hasson has since her early childhood been only a short time in any one city, as her family for generations has been connected with the army and was constantly traveling. In 1895 she was graduated from the Connecticut Training School for Nurses and until the outbreak of the war she was stationed at several hospitals in New York. For more than three years she served in the war, first in the camps in this country and later on the hospital ship "Relief," in Cuba and Porto Rico. After the close of the war she was sent to the Philippines, where she remained for two years at the First Reserve Hospital, in Manila, and at a hospital in Luzon. Since that time she has been engaged in private nursing.

At present she is the highest paid woman in the navy department, her salary being $1800 a year. Before her appointment she was compelled to take a rigorous examination at the hands of the board of surgeons. An unusual feature of Miss Hasson's genealogy is the fact that relatives of hers have served in practically every war which has been undertaken by the United States. A great-great-grandfather on her mother's side was one of those who fought under Braddock in the French and Indian war; her great-great-grandfather on her father's side took up arms during the Revolution; her grandfather was a volunteer in 1812; her father served as a surgeon in the Civil war; while she herself was engaged in the war with Spain and in the Philippine Insurrection.

SECRETARY LOEB

ISSUES STATEMENT ABOUT STANDARD OIL MATTER.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Secretary Loeb's attention was called yesterday to the letters read by William R. Hearst at a political meeting in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday night, which included correspondence said to have passed between Senator Foraker of Ohio, Congressman Sibley, of Pennsylvania, and John D. Archbold of Standard Oil company. Last night Mr. Loeb issued the following official statement, presumably in reply to that portion of the correspondence in which Mr. Sibley is alleged to have called upon the president in behalf of the Standard Oil company.

"When Secretary Loeb's attention was called to the alleged letter of ex-Congressman Sibley, he stated that Mr. Sibley was one of several hundred people in the political and financial world who, at different times, appealed to the president not to prosecute the Standard Oil company. To all of these people the president listened with all politeness and consideration. He found himself unable to agree with any of them, however, and the prosecutions were accordingly ordered continued and are in progress at the present time."

ARMY OFFICERS

Investigate the Aero-plane Accident

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Fort Myer,

the scene of Thursday's aeroplane disaster, which resulted in the death of Lieut.

Thomas E. Selfridge of the signal corps, and the serious injury of Orville Wright, preserved a cheerless aspect yesterday.

The air of gloom that pervaded the army post was in marked contrast to the scene of bustle and excitement that had attended the flight of Wright's aero-plane Thursday afternoon, with its tragic climax. This gloom was reflected in the faces of the brother officers of the unfortunate lieutenant when they met at the fort yesterday morning to make an official investigation of the accident, in the manner in which the usual morning cavalry drill was gone through with over the very ground upon which the fatal aerial ship was wrecked, and in the words of appreciation by members of the signal corps' balloon squad which had been under the direct charge of Lieut. Selfridge.

Lieut. Selfridge's body was yesterday removed from the hospital at Fort Myer to an undertaker's, where it will remain until the arrival of the young officer's father, who wired today from San Francisco that he would like to have his son buried at Arlington or West Point.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but a military funeral will be held, and burial will probably be at Arlington National cemetery. Prof.

Alexander Graham Bell, president of the

Aerial Experiment association, of which

Lieut. Selfridge was secretary, will come from Nova Scotia to attend the funeral.

Miss Catherine Wright, the sister of the injured aviator, arrived here from

Dayton, O., yesterday afternoon, and accompanied by Charles R. Flint, the Wright brothers' financial agent, visited her brother at the hospital. Octave

Chanute, a close friend and adviser of the Wright brothers, and C. E. Taylor,

and C. W. Furness, Orville Wright's mechanics, were the only other persons permitted to see him yesterday.

Major George Squire, acting chief signal officer of the army, yesterday convened the board of signal officers for the purpose of making an official inquiry into the death of Lieut. Selfridge.

The finding of the board of inquiry was given out by Major Squire as follows:

"The board finds that the accident which occurred in an official night mail at Fort Myer, Va., at about 5:15 p. m. on Sept. 17, 1908, was due to the accidental breaking of a propeller blade and a consequent unavoidable loss of control, which resulted in the machine falling to the ground from a height of about 25 feet.

"The board finds that First Lieut.

Thomas E. Selfridge, First Field Artillery

(attached to the signal corps by war department orders, and assigned to aeronautical duty), accompanied by Mr.

Wright by authority, on the aeroplane, for the purpose of officially receiving instruction, received injuries by the falling of the machine which resulted in his death."

The signal corps will proceed with its investigation and it is understood that the Wright brothers will be permitted to make their official trials whenever they are ready without endangering their

FIRES SPREADING

New York State Threatened With Great Conflagration

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—New York state is threatened with forest fires which may equal those in 1903 when several lives were lost and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed, according to a statement made today by John K. Ward, counsel to the state forest, fish and game commission. The forest fires raging in the Adirondacks are spreading rapidly and if the present drought up state continues Mr. Ward says a very serious situation is sure to develop. In 1903 the fires extended over 100,000 acres of forest lands.

PAIR CAPTURED HAD BEEN CHASED FOR WEEK BY DETECTIVES.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—A chase which occupied the better part of a week and in which about every female store detective in Boston participated, had its ending in the Central police court yesterday when Fannie Freedman of 6 Cobb street and Mary Hortowitz of New York were arraigned in the second session before Judge Bolster and found guilty of shoplifting and an attempt to pick pockets of women in the large department stores.

The attention of the detectives was first directed to the two women when one of the defendants coolly opened the handbag which Mrs. Edda Lindquist, a store detective, was carrying. The latter's professional training was at once aroused and she followed the two women from store to store, enlisting in the chase the services of five other store detectives. All the detectives were in court yesterday and told of following the two defendants from store to store, and of seeing them open bag after bag of different women in the stores. It was not until last Saturday, however, that they considered they would be warranted in asking the assistance of Inspector Armstrong in arresting the pair. The latter, together with Inspector Abbott, made the arrest in the market district Saturday evening.

Among those who have reported losses are Mrs. J. P. Brown, wife of Justice Brown of the superior bench; Mrs. M. A. Keefe of Middleboro, who lost $55 and her railroad tickets; Mrs. A. O. Slams and Mrs. Richard T. Beals, who lost a black bookcase similar in shape to a pocketbook.

LADD AND WHITNEY CIRCLE

Ladd and Whitney circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., held a successful lawn party Thursday afternoon and evening at the home of Sister Agnes Mahaney, 132 Branch street.

A good old fashioned G. A. R. supper was served, after which singing, music and what were enjoyed.

Those who assisted Sister Mahaney were: Sisters Clough, Peabody, Gilman and Boudinet.

At the regular meeting of Ladd and Whitney circle last night considerable routine business was passed on. An invitation to a lawn party at Mrs. Eliza Clarke's, 107 Woodward avenue, Pawtucketville, Sept. 26, was accepted. There will be a meeting of the executive committee held at the residence of Mrs. Emerson, 512 Westford street, Sept. 23.

CHILD IS SAVED

But Big Auto Was Completely Wrecked

SOUTH ATTLEBORO, Sept. 19.—Little Dorothy Culbert, the 3-year-old daughter of John C. Culbert of Pawtucket, was close to death yesterday afternoon, as were also her father and small brother, Linwood, but the little girl's escape was miraculous.

In a large touring car the party of three was moving through the streets of South Attleboro, when a swiftly moving electric car came along. Mr. Culbert saw that a collision was inevitable. He jumped from the auto with his boy in his arms, intending to rescue his daughter a second later.

But he had no time, for the car struck the auto, hurling it a distance of 30 feet. The girl gave no scream and it was thought that she had been instantly killed.

When the distracted father rushed to the wrecked auto he found his child lying in the bottom of the machine, still and white. He stooped over to pick up what he thought was only the body of his little girl, when the eyes opened and a faint smile played around the little lips.

The shock of reaction was so great for Mr. Culbert that he fell in a state of collapse. But in a few minutes he recovered. None was injured.

The accident occurred at about 5 o'clock, on Washington street. The force of the collision was so great that the car itself was wrecked, while the auto was practically demolished.

BABY GIVEN AWAY

Little Marion Lewis Goes to State Board

The little baby found on the steps of the Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street, June 28, by Patrolman Simon Lane, has been turned over to the state board of charities. The little one has been called Marion Lewis.

When found it was thought that she would not live, but she was placed in a home where she received good care and now is enjoying the best of health.

GREATLY SHOCKED AT DEATH OF LIEUT. SELFIDGE

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 19.—Dr. Alex. Graham Bell, who is now on his way to Washington to attend an emergency meeting of the Aerial Experiment Ass'n. Sunday immediately on his arrival there and also to attend the funeral of Lieut. Selfridge. Dr. Bell was seen at Truro yesterday. The servant felt the shock of Lieut. Selfridge's death greatly and was so overcome he could hardly talk about it. Lieut. Selfridge's death will make no difference in the plans of the Aerial Experiment association, either at Hammondsport or Baddeck; he said. Flying machines Nos. 5 and 6, now being built on the Tetrahedral design at Baddeck, will be tested the middle of October, when, Dr. Bell says, matters of great moment to those interested in aeronautics will be developed.

WOMAN BURNED WHILE TRYING TO LIGHT GAS

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—While attempting to light the gas in a bedroom by means of a flaming newspaper last night, Mrs. Johanna Callahan, aged 57 year, of 91 Adams street, Dorchester, was so severely burned about the head and body that she died from the effects at 11 o'clock.

At the time of the accident her husband, Samuel Callahan, was sitting in the kitchen eating his supper. When his wife rushed into the room with her clothes ablaze he grabbed a cotton quilt which he wrapped around her.

He then rushed across the street to the police station and asked that a doctor be sent for. The police ambulance was called out and was ready to take the woman to the hospital, but had to wait for the arrival of the doctor.

GRANITEVILLE FIRE

A lively fire broke out in the dump near the Nashua & Acton railroad in West Graniteville early Thursday afternoon. The smoke was so dense that people in the vicinity thought the woods were on fire. Fire warden J. A. Healey was notified and in a short time there was a game of hide-and-seek. With the assistance of sand and water the fire was extinguished.

BANDIT STORY

Told to Police By a Brighton Man

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—A Brighton man, whose name the Cambridge police refuse to reveal, ran into Station 2 yesterday afternoon claiming that a bandit was running amuck on River street, Cambridgeport.

According to his story he was driving down River street when a shot rang out and he fell from his team to the ground. Leaving his horse in the street he hastened to the police station. There was a great cash in his forehead.

Inspector Nelson took the man in charge and escorted him to the office of Dr. F. M. Gilman at 123 River street, where the wound was dressed.

The doctor stated that in his opinion the wound was not occasioned by a bullet, but by a flying splinter.

TIMBER IN DANGER

Of Being Destroyed by the Forest Fires

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 19.—Smoke, completely obscuring the sun, overhung all this section yesterday. Reports from La Quin last night said that a number of fires had succeeded, by backfiring, in saving the 10,000-foot-of-logs of the Central Pennsylvania Lumber company. The same timber, however, is still in danger from fires appearing in another direction, and the men are now turning their attention to that fire.

The mountains all along the West branch of the Susquehanna river, are hidden by smoke, and at night the red glare can be seen for miles.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

The Automobile Club of America has asked the individual manufacturers and the different associations of motor car manufacturers in this country to send in their suggestions for a revision of the international racing rules at the congress of the world's recognized motoring organizations at Paris in October. The rules to govern the great speed events of next year are to be formulated at the meeting in Paris of representatives of the various national clubs that are members of the International Association of Recognized Automobile Clubs.

The Automobile club of Italy has come forward with a suggestion that the limit of bore for four cylinder engines be fixed at 130 millimeters for next year in place of the 155 millimeters—6.1 inches—that was the limit for this year. The Automobile Club of America has asked the manufacturers of this country as soon as possible to prepare a technical opinion for the delegates of the club who will attend the international conference in the French capital.

Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, announced yesterday that R. W. Buckley, Jr., of this city had made the first formal entry of an American car for the club's grand prize race at Savannah on Thanksgiving day. The car is the 110 horsepower racer that the builders began making for the 1906 Vanderbilt cup race, but did not complete in time and which they had expected to enter in the 1907 Vanderbilt cup race that was not held. Thomas Williams has been named as driver for the car.

E. Little of the Italia Import company stated yesterday that three Italas instead of two would be entered for the grand prize race.

Twenty-nine cars containing about 100 men and women, arrived at the Automobile Club of America in West Fifty-fourth street, New York, last night, after completing the final day's travel of the two day mechanical efficiency motor car test and run around Long Island.

The first two cars to check in at the club were the 30 horsepower Stevens-Duryea car entered by A. G. Spaulding & Bros., and the 60 horsepower Stevens-Duryea entered by the Stevens-Duryea company. Both cars arrived at the club at 6:50. They were followed one minute later by another Stevens-Duryea, a 35 horsepower car entered by the International Generator company, and a Zust car entered by the American Zust Motor company. After these the other cars came filing in at one minute intervals.

Outside of a little tire trouble there was but one accident in yesterday's run. The 18 horsepower Lancia entered by the Hol-Tan company, sheared off its top and one gear out in the sand hills on the run from Montauk Point to Amagansett and was not checked in at any of the stations except the one at the Point. A few of the cars got stuck in the sand, but they eventually got started again and arrived at the checking stations on time.

As was the case in Wednesday's run many of the cars went off the route, which caused a great deal of confusion. Between Cold Spring Harbor and Oyster Bay one car took the wrong road and five other cars followed it. It was not until the six cars had gone about four miles out of the way that the drivers discovered their mistake and retraced their tracks. Four of the cars made up the time lost, but the other two arrived in Oyster Bay after their schedule time had elapsed.

The two women drivers, Mrs. Cuneo in a Painter and Mrs. Ramsey in a Maxwell, completed the test on schedule time. The American Locomotive company's 16-horse power taxicab entered by William H. Seach company, which was the first car of its kind to enter a contest of this kind, finished the 200 mile run in first-class condition, which was quite a surprise, for it was predicted that it would never cross the sand dunes separating Amagansett from Montauk. The car went over the sand hills as well as any of the higher powered cars, and in some cases passed big cars that were stranded on the way.

The start from Montauk Inn, which is situated about six and a half miles from the Point, was made at 7:30 o'clock this morning and the first-class cars were required to cover the 145 miles to Flushing in 7 hours and 15 minutes running time, which is an average of about nineteen miles an hour. The second class cars had a schedule of 17 miles to the hour.

The first stop after leaving the inn was at the Montauk Point, which took the travellers to the extreme eastern point of Long Island. The lighthouse, which was erected while George Washington was president, had previous to yesterday been visited only by two motor cars, one of which arrived last Monday night after being lost on its way to the inn.

An inspection of the lighthouse was made, after which the machines got under way for the nineteen mile drive across the sand dunes to Amagansett. The first checking place. The next stopping place was Riverhead, where the travelers attended the Suffolk County fair and paraded around the race track preceded by a brass band in two automobiles. After luncheon the cars were on their way again bound for Stony Brook.

After leaving Riverhead the machines struck some steep hills which they all negotiated with ease. A hill that took the breath away from some of the drivers was met with at the entrance to Sea Cliff. It was a double S turn up a steep hill after a sharp right turn from a road running along the Long Island Sound. The incline was about a quarter of a mile long and more than one car felt the effects of traveling it. The famous Roelynn

Hill tested to the utmost the climbing ability of the cars.

President Benedict of the Automobile Club of America recently took the members of the road and bridges committee of the local board of supervisors on a trip of inspection over the roads to Albany and Troy. The committee members were taken out in the hope of interesting them in arranging for sprinkling the state roads in the county with oil. The road between Schenectady and Albany has been sprinkled with oil and the road surface has been well preserved and the dust laid in consequence. The road between Schenectady and Troy has not been oiled, but the automobilists hope the supervisors will have this done in the near future.

Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, announced yesterday that three Benz racing cars had been entered for the club's grand prize race at Savannah on Thanksgiving day. The German national organization having forwarded the signed entry blanks and checks to the Automobile club of America. The announcement sent out declared: "The Benz & Cie. Rheinische Gasmotoren Fabrik, Aktien-Gesellschaft, makers of the Benz car, have nominated Victor Hemery, Rene Hanriot and Fritz Erle as drivers.

The cars are those that competed in the Grand Prix race of the Automobile club of France over the Dieppe circuit in July in which Hemery finished 2d after driving for more than half the race with bits of glass in one eye as a result of a stone breaking his goggles. The engines have the maximum cylinder bore of 155 millimeters and each car weighs 1225 kilograms, or 2,599.9 pounds. Hemery won the second Vanderbilt cup race in 1905 with a Darracq. The entry of three cars was a surprise to Chairman Morrell, as former advice from Germany had told of only one car.

The Automobile club of Italy has also completed the entry of the three Fiat racing cars concerning the entry of which previous announcement has been made. The Fiat cars are to be driven by Nazzaro, Wagner and Ralph De Palma of Brooklyn, who holds the one mile track record of 51 seconds made with the Fiat Cyclone. The fact that the bureau of tours of the Automobile Club of America will take charge of all the racing cars in New York, clear them through the Custom House, deliver them in Savannah and return them to New York will greatly simplify the troubles of Europeans in getting their racing or touring cars down to Savannah.

Entries are also assured of thirteen more cars, although as yet they have not been completed by the international clubs of the respective countries. Two Renaults, two Panhards, two Lorraine-Dietrichs, a Motobloc and a Clement-Bayard are to come from France. In addition to the three Fiat already entered Italy will be represented by two Italas and one Isotta-Fraschini, and Germany will have two of the three Mercedes cars that competed in the Grand Prix on the Dieppe circuit. All of the cars named competed in the French club's Grand Prix race and it was with one of the Fiat entered that Nazzaro averaged a flat more than 74 miles an hour in the Florio cup race recently in Italy. The Savannah Automobile club has announced that accommodations will be provided for 12,000 visitors.

GREEK JUBILATION

Unique Demonstration After Last Night's Wrestling Match

LOCAL GREEKS BEARING TRIUMPHANTLY THE VICTORIOUS PROKOS THROUGH THE STREETS ON THEIR SHOULDERS.

500 Cheering Greeks Bear Young Prokos on Shoulders in Street Parade Headed by American and Greek Flags—Most Exciting Wrestling Match Ever Held Here

The wrestling match between Young Prokos, the country's greatest welter-weight wrestler, and War Eagle, a genuine full-blooded Mohawk Indian at Associate hall, the attendant excitement and the subsequent demonstration in honor of the winner by the Greeks of the city, all combined to make the affair one of the most unique sporting events that ever took place in Lowell.

The Greeks, who are good sports at all times, turned out in large numbers, all greatly enthusiastic over their own representative on the mat. Around the ring in the best seats were noted all the leading members of the Greek colony from George Couzoules, the popular Greek consul, down the line, while the gallery was packed with Greeks. "White highly enthusiastic, they were well behaved and despite the nature of the event Officers McCann and Hill handled the great crowd as easily as if the affair were under the auspices of the Y. M. C. E.

The Greeks cheered their favorite both in English and their native tongue and the endeavor of some of them to hand out the champagne of the mat was most amusing to the other spectators. The younger element in the audience yelled their approval of the Indian in a series of ear-splitting war-whoops such as the small boy delights to emit whenever and wherever he comes in contact with a real live Indian and it took the younger Greek only a few minutes to get on to the new kind of cry and in a short time they were working a Greek-American Indian whoop that was as amusing as it was soul-stirring. The Greeks, it was noted, also expressed their approval by whistling lustily and when Prokos won the first fall, the uproar was deafening. As soon as the match was over the Greeks sent a committee of "consuls" from George Couzoules for the loan of a Greek flag and the latter furnished them with two beautiful silk flags, one of the national emblem of Greece and the other Old Glory. As soon as Prokos was dressed a committee of husky members of the colony placed him on their shoulders and headed by some 400 Greeks the parade started. A short stop was made in front of city hall, where the winner was lustily cheered, and then the marchers went to the Greek colony where in a few minutes several thousand Greeks were on the street cheering like all possessed. Prokos was carried into a coffee house which in an instant was crowded to the doors. Here Prokos made a brief speech, after which the procession was reformed and proceeded down Market to Prescott to Merrimack and back to the colony where the festivities were kept up until midnight. Hundreds of Americans followed the crowd and joined in the festivities at the Greek colony and all were made at home.

Prokos Too Clever

The match was of the strenuous order with something doing every moment. If any one prior to the match had an suspicion that War Eagle was Billy Ladue, that suspicion disappeared as soon as the Indian appeared on the mat. He was twice as big as Ladue and twice as clever looking. There was no doubt about his nationality as he was the typical Indian in appearance and by the same token in his way of doing business, for he was out for a church, will take a course of study at Oxford university.

Last night there was held the regular Friday night meeting of the church and the matter of the resignation of the associate pastor came before the meeting in an informal way and was considered by the standing committee in executive session afterward. At the close of the prayer meeting Rev. Geo. F. Kennigott, the pastor, called upon second time and the match was over. On several occasions one picked the other bodily from the mat while on one occasion while War Eagle had the up-end hold on Prokos they got to the edge of the mat when the referee ordered them to the center. War Eagle instead of going through the formality of releasing the hold and then taking it again simply picked Prokos up by the ankles and swung him around to the center of the ring after the fashion of a man carrying a live hen.

The preliminary was interesting. John Turner "Old Sport" officiated as timekeeper.

GOV. HASKELL

Brands Hearst's Charges Against Him

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—In the face of the assertion of Mr. Hearst at St. Louis that an affidavit signed by F. S. Monnett, former attorney-general of Ohio, identified Gov. C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma as having been a party to Standard Oil alleged negotiations, Gov. Haskell today declared the statements were absolutely false.

"The assertion that I had anything to do with the Standard is absolutely false," said Gov. Haskell.

"On the day the affidavits are said to have been signed Sept. 12, 1908, Mr. Monnett was in Oklahoma City and on that day made a speech in which he connected me from all connection with the Standard Oil matter. It is unbelievable that any man would make such a speech and on the same day sign an affidavit stating the contrary thing. There is no truth in the charges."

Another Denial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—When the attention of W. C. Haskell, former United States marshal at Cleveland, O., and now leader of weights and measures for the District of Columbia, was called to the statement of Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma that it was he who Mr. Hearst referred to in a Columbus speech as having relations with the Standard Oil Co., Mr. Haskell declared:

"Gov. Haskell is evidently mistaken. I never had any connection with the Standard Oil Co. or any of its officers either in a business or social way. So the Haskell referred to is someone else. I have no idea what Haskell Mr. Hearst referred to."

W. C. Haskell was appointed United States marshal for the northern district of Ohio by President Harrison.

THE AMERICANS

Expect to Defeat British Players Today

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—With the Americans in the strong position of two points to one the British lawn tennis players went to Longwood today facing a hard reposition. The victory in the doubles yesterday by the Americans left M. J. Ritchie to play against Walter A. Law and John A. Pargitt to meet Beals C. Wright in the singles today.

The American followers of the game had every confidence before the contests began today that Law and Pargitt would carry off their match with Ritchie and thereby win the series for this country. The outcome of the match was not considered to be in doubt with the chances favoring the Americans.

The weather today was about a repetition of that of the past two days with a dull, smoky atmosphere, rather warm for the players but ideal from the spectators' point of view.

Miss Dixon. She told of her great love for the church and people and she said she knew that the church people wanted to know why she was leaving them. Her only reason was that she longed for a course of foreign study and travel, and she intended to go abroad.

BRIDE FAINTED

When She Heard Lover Was a Bigamist

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Because the young woman he professed to love, spurned him on the night they were to have been married, Abraham Rusinow, yesterday cut his throat with a razor at No. 235 Prince street, Newark, and is near death.

Miss Annie Butnick came to America recently. She lives at No. 223 Broome street, Newark, where she was to have married Rusinow last Sunday night. The knot was about to be tied when a guest recognized Rusinow as the possessor of a wife in New York and the one in Russia. The girl fainted and Rusinow vanished. He was not heard from again until he tried to end his life.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"A Modern Lady Godiva" and "The Man Hunt" were the plays presented by the Clara Turner Co. at the Opera House yesterday. As an added attraction an amateur concert was given after the regular performance last night. This afternoon the play will be "Jane and Her Teddy Bears," and tonight the company will bring its engagement here to a close, presenting "The Days of '41."

"Sweet Clover" Providence, proverbially critical as regards the merits of its theatrical offerings, has set the seal of approval on the Clara Turner company. Record breaking houses were made all through the season at the Temple theatre and now from such emphatic success this engagement comes to the Opera House for three nights and two matinees, commencing Monday, Sept. 21. The offering will be the new drama, "Sweet Clover," with its wealth of healthy sentiment, refreshing as a May morning, telling a charming story in an interesting life of a woman who will not only guide her footsteps, but whose father endeavors to protect her from all harm.

Miss Nance O'Neil in "Agnes" One of the most notable engagements of the early season at the Opera House, Nance O'Neil, who returns to Lowell next Friday night, when she will present her new and successful play "Agnes" since her last appearance here Miss O'Neil has won many honors and fortune in foreign countries as well as at home. Her advancement during the past few years has been made by leaps and bounds, and she is now to be fairly called as one of the great actresses of our day. Miss O'Neil will open her Metropolitan engagement at the Majestic theatre, New York, early in October. The sale of seats opens Tuesday.

Micaglio's Band Signor Micaglio, who comes from Italy at the head of his own noted organization, Micaglio's concert band, is one of the most successful of present day directors of the old world. He has won his way to the top rank by persistent and conscientious devotion to study and development of innate abilities. His musical talents were dominant from earliest days, and his final achievements are the reward of a life of application. His rewards are copious in his native Italy and throughout Europe, and now he has come to the Opera House in America. Among the soloists of his band are Miss Helen Bell, dramatic soprano, and Miss Luisa Arduini-Tosi, lyric soprano. Both are vocalists of high standing. The engagement here is Thursday, Sept. 21.

"The Shoemaker" A play for the masses as well as the classes is underlined for the Lowell Opera House for Saturday, Sept. 26. It is by Hal Reid and entitled "The Shoemaker." The leading role of Morris Goldberg, Hebrew member of the Sholemite, is played by a well known Hebrew dialect comedian and actor. The play, which is a melodrama of the better sort, literally teems with thrills, sensations, heart interest, comedy and tears, is in four acts and well staged.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

The show that Hathaway's theatre has provided for next week is a triumph in the art of amusement purveying, and those who are on hand to enjoy the good vaudeville offering of the week will find it a highly enjoyable one. The feature number of the all-star program is contributed by Robert Henry Dodge & Co., in the up-to-date and fun "The Brothers, Bachelor, and the Bride." The comedy number of the week is a highly enjoyable number, "The Brothers, Bachelor, and the Bride," which has achieved even greater eminence as a vaudeville. Mr. Colby and Miss May have been touring Europe for a long and successful European tour. The three talents, two men and a woman, fully justify their title of "The Merry Musical Monarchs." Their instruction is a fun having a particularly strong appeal. The show closes with a series of the newest and most entertaining moving pictures.

He Was Haled to the Station Where With Loud Exclamation They Questioned His Sex With a Scornful Look That Would Vex—Then They Gave Him a Cell and Truth 'tis to Tell These Words of Regret Robert Spoke—"Alas! that Poor Lennon Can't See Through a Joke!"

There is a time and place for fun, but Robert Lowe, of Third street, did not realize that last night when he dressed up in his wife's clothes and started to parade the streets of Centralville. He had been out for a short time before he fell into the clutches of the law and after getting a ride in the patrol wagon, spent the night in a cell instead of in his bed.

Bobby left his house during the early part of the night to do some shopping. The nature of the goods purchased caused him to become hilarious and at ten o'clock when he reached his home he thought it would be one grand good idea to sneak into the house, don his wife's clothing and give her a little fright.

He stole in through the rear door and removing his own clothing soon appeared on the street in woman's attire.

He had been out but a short time when the eagle eye of Patrolman Lennon rested upon him and the latter was placed under arrest after a little chase and considerable indignity on the part of the supposed lady.

When he arrived at the police station and was placed before the booking desk he was asked to give his name, age and residence.

"Robert Lowe, aged 30 years, Third street," was the reply that Robert gave. Keeper McQuitty looked up and perceived ing through the window over the desk shouted out: "Come now, none of your fooling. You may not find this as funny as you think when you sober up in the morning."

"Well that's my name," was the answer.

"Who ever heard tell of a woman being named Robert?" said the keeper, who by this time was getting impatient.

"I ain't no woman; I'm a man," said Lowe.

At this point Wagon Officer Frawley put in an appearance, and told the keeper that "she" was really a man and had been parading around the streets in woman's attire.

Lowe was booked for drunkenness and during the night and early hours of the morning while he was rolling back and forth on his downy plunk he murmured to himself "If only I had a police officer who could understand a joke!"

Owing to the fact that it was the first time that Lowe had been arrested he was released by the probation officer and did not appear in court.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The last performance of "The Factory Girl," will be given tonight at the Academy of Music and next week the Deshon-Pitt stock company will appear in a production of Charles P. Rice's celebrated society drama "The Forbidden Marriage" elaborately staged under the direction of Charles D. Pitt.

Chicago Concern Has Gone Into a Receiver's Hands

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—A concern in Chicago which has twenty months of life and which has sold $1,250,000 of preferred stock to people all over the country at a price to yield $1,500,000, went into a receiver's hands yesterday. The receiver at once called on the officers of the company to turn over the assets. He got engraved certificates of stock in "allied and subsidiary companies" and $319.29 in cash. The receiver will try to find out where the other $1,490,680 has gone, for he does not attach value to the certificates.

The concern which had this thrilling existence is the Mercantile Securities Co., second in the chain of the Rhodus brothers, high finance corporations. John C. Feizer is the receiver. He is also receiver for the Central Life Securities Co.

The Mercantile Securities Co., a subsidiary company of the Central Life Securities Co., which was placed in receivership in June by Judge Kohlstaet of the United States circuit court, is a Maine corporation, capitalized at $2,500,000, equally divided into common and preferred stock. The company was organized in January, 1907, the officers being Thomas P. Birch and Edward P. Rhodus, Miss Minnie Scully who figures in all the Rhodus corporations and William L. Sherrill.

To prospective stock purchasers it was represented that the company was to be an agency company for the sale of Central Life Securities Co. stock and that the proceeds were to be used to establish a bank in Chicago. Although the preferred stock was issued at par value of $10, much of it was sold at $12.50, $14 and even higher.

A TOTAL WRECK

Strong Currents Carried Steamer Aeon on Christmas Island

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 19.—Cable advices from Fanning Island last night state that the steamer Aeon which left San Francisco July 8 for Auckland via Apia and was long overdue, was carried on Christmas Island by strong currents setting in shore and became a total wreck. The ship's company, fifty in all, took to the boats and landed at a small settlement facing the lagoon, all safe.

The steamer Maank of the Canadian Australia line is to call at Fanning Island to land supplies on her present voyage and is due Tuesday next. It is expected that she will take off the survivors of the Aeon and they will be landed at Sydney.

The hundred bags of mail aboard are likely to be recovered. A gasoline engine from the cargo was fitted in the ship's boat to take Captain Downie, the second officer and two engineers to Fanning Island, lying 140 miles northwest, to cable news of the disaster. After a long trip the captain reached Fanning Island yesterday morning.

There are four women and two children, including wives of officers of the United States battleship squadron who took passage to join their husbands in Australia. All are camping

GIRL WHO ELOPED

With Coachman Gets $75,000 in Trust Fund

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The will of Giovanni P. Morosini, the late millionaire banker, and early colleague of Jay Gould, which was filed in the surrogate's court in this city yesterday, contains several distinct surprises.

In the first place, the estate is apparently smaller than was first supposed, and although there will be no way of knowing its exact size until the inheritance tax appraisers make their inventory, it is learned upon good authority that it will be below $500,000.

In the second place, the dead banker provided for the two children whom he practically disinherited during their early life, namely, Attilio, the younger son, who incurred his father's wrath by marrying Miss Mary Bond, and Victoria, the daughter who ran away and married the family coachman and who, ever since that time, has led a reclusive life away from the family mansion.

To the former he leaves a trust fund of $150,000; to the latter he leaves a trust fund of $75,000.

Amallo, the sickly daughter, and one of the father's favorites, is also left the sum of $150,000 in trust, and Giulia, the favorite daughter, who receives the bulk of the estate, is named as trustee of this particular fund. Her share will be $2,500,000 or $3,000,000—perhaps more.

The will of Mr. Morosini, who was supposed to have been many times a millionaire, gives no definite idea of his wealth, but, judging from the comparatively small amounts bequeathed, it appears either that his fortune was much smaller than commonly supposed, or that he has cut off all of his children but Miss Giulia with comparatively scant consideration. The exact value of the estate cannot be estimated until the appraisement, eight days from now, by the state appraiser.

Trust Fund For Elopement Daughter

An interesting feature of the will is that it creates a trust fund of $75,000 for the daughter Victoria, now Mrs. E. H. Schilling, who eloped with the family coachman some years ago, and who, it was supposed, the father had not forgiven.

SEC'Y WRIGHT

Comments on Aeroplane Accident

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—"There is no doubt that the American people would applaud a generous, rather than a strictly technical attitude on the part of the government toward Orville Wright," said Secretary of War Wright upon being asked for an expression as to what action the government would take in view of Thursday's fatal accident to the Wright brothers' aeroplane at Fort Meyer.

"Mr. Wright's achievements won the admiration and his misfortune the sympathy of the whole country but until the war department has some recommendation to act upon I cannot say what course will be followed. It may be that should payment in or partial be advanced an act of fairness under the contract the department would be without power to make it and an act of congress would be necessary."

"Under no circumstances would Mr. Wright accept any money from the government for his machine until he had fulfilled the contract requirements," said Charles Flint, the Wright brothers' business representative, when he learned that such a proposition was being discussed.

"Orville Wright is thinking only of getting well and is not making any plans for the future just yet.

"The Wrights have several aeroplanes at Dayton, O. and I am sure they will make an effort to first fulfill their contract with the government as soon as possible. I presume they could get an extension of time if they asked for it."

Hears Details of Accident to Brother

LEMAN, Sept. 19.—Wilbur Wright received a cablegram today containing the explanation made by his brother, Orville, and his brother's assistants of the accident to the Wright aeroplane at Washington Thursday in which Lieut. Thomas Selfridge lost his life. Wilbur Wright was much relieved to learn that his brother Orville is out of danger but he still deprecates the death of Lieut. Selfridge.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE

The regular monthly meeting of the Law and Order league will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building, Third street, on Monday evening, September 21, at 7:45 o'clock. All who are interested in the work of the league are cordially invited to be present.

PARIS CREATIONS FOR AUTUMN OUTDOOR WEAR

PARIS, Sept. 5.—There seems to be a conventional idea that women enjoy buying new clothes. Some women certainly do, but, as a general rule, the many are bored to death planning their season's outfit. But ever since the days when Eve in a moment of mistaken modesty set the ball of fashion rolling, dress has been a problem which increases in complexity as civilization advances and is none the less wearisome for being more or less necessary. It is true we must have clothes of some sort, but why in the name of everything that is boring should we have so many? This is a good season to ponder this question. Half the things one buys are entirely superfluous, and if it were not for the desire to impress others our dressmaker's bills would never exceed the limit of our contributions to charity. As it is, we are all martyrs to our clothes, men almost as much as women, the only difference, indeed, between a man's and a woman's method of shopping being that, while both lay in a quantity of new clothes, women wear theirs and men, on the other hand, never put theirs on.

The amount of new clothes which a man will order and then put away for years is by no means the least eccentric of his many strange acts. The only way to account for it is to be found in the fact that no man ever seems to pay for his clothes. How tailors live is a mystery to every woman, for not only do they never seem to require that "early settlement" which dressmakers have a habit of "respectfully" informing you will "oblige" them, and incidentally inconvenience you, but they seem to be actually in the habit here in Paris of lending their customers money. This has never happened to me, for, on the contrary, I was charged by a couturier for a black pin I borrowed from the establishment in order to fasten my veil.

To return, however, to my point, I am sure the reason we all enjoy the summer outings in the country so much is because we don't have to be constantly on the alert about our clothes.

Clothes Express Individuality.

All express themselves, undoubtedly, more or less in their apparel. Some persons, though, seem to have nothing to express except a desire to be covered. For these the ready-made skirt and coat fulfill all the requirements of a commonplace personality. Innumerable women of the type exist, though not among Parisian mondaines. But if one's clothes are to be anything more than a mere covering for the body they must be an index to the mind of the wearer. If a woman has a baffling individuality, it is certain to be suggested in everything she wears, from the ornament adorning her hair down to the foamy frills of her lace-trimmed petticoat. The more subtle her temperament the more suggestive will be her style in dress. Every line of her frock, every fold of her drapery, will contain a fresh glimpse of her soul. For, consciously or unconsciously, we all reveal ourselves in our clothes. We dress in sympathy with our temperament, and if there is no softness in our minds there will be uncompromising severity in our garments; if we are dead to the graces of life our spiritual decay shows itself in crude colors and in distressingly "new" clothes.

In the latter it is of course impossible to express oneself successfully. A dress must be worn several times before it takes on the individuality of the wearer, and persons who never wear the same frock twice never express anything. As Thoreau says in "Walden," "Beware of all enterprises that require new clothes." You know how fatal it is to do one's hair differently when having a picture taken or to wear a new gown the first time at an important function.

Only very crude and inexperienced women put on "new" clothes for momentary occasions. Such a proceeding can only lead to uncertainty to one's appearance and uncertainty in a crisis, whether of dress or mind, is equally fatal.

On the whole, therefore, with the problems surrounding the question of dress, it is not difficult to understand why women who realize all that clothes can and do mean enjoy a few weeks' respite from the difficulties of what to get and what to wear. But, comfort to the contrary, we must be getting together our fall and early winter finery. Hats, of course, are the first consideration, and the smartest creations of the Parisian millinery world are in small shapes, "pill boxes," as a very irreverent man called them. Attractive as the little hat undoubtedly is, it requires much more art to achieve a chic appearance in a creation of this kind than it does in a market basket affair. In the first place, the materials must, like Caesar's wife, be above reproach, and the hair should be arranged in a perfect fashion exactly suited to the wearer's face and at the same time be in conformity with the outline of the hat itself. Then there is a coquettishness about the properly poised, properly trimmed small hat that not even the huge picture creation, with its weeping plumes, can equal, but a small hat that does not suit its wearer is even worse than the large hat that has turned out a misfit.

A charming small chapeau signed Virot is in a light shade of London smoke, which shade, by the way, is so fashionable this season in every department of dress. It is a round hat with the left brim wider at the front and left side and has the outer side of the brim turned up a little. The whole underbrim is faced with a darker shade of gray velvet. The crown is high and round, with a dent in the top running from the left front to the right side near the back. It is trimmed with two narrow scarfs of finely plaited gray taffeta ribbon, one being light smoke and the other dark. Both of the scarfs are knotted once at the left side, and from these knots the plaited ends are drawn up to the left front and a series of five small shaded gray wings with rose pink tips is set on. These wings and the scarf practically cover the front and the left side of the hat. There is a tiny bandeau at the left side covered with rose pink satin folds exactly matching the rose tips of the wings. This hat is to be worn with a suit of London smoke broadcloth.

New Feather Trimming.

One of the most stunning of the hats seen so far is entirely covered with ostrich feathers, not as plumes or tips, but several feathers put on a covered frame. Each quill and each vane is fastened to the foundation, making what is to all intents and purposes a fabric. Fashioned in this manner, the ostrich draped frame can be bent in a becoming form and is sufficient unto itself, for trimming of any description would be on the principle of painting the lily. This creation is naturally very expensive and at the same time very exclusive, therefore, to be longed for and coveted even at the risk of depleting one's dress allowance to a deplorable extent. Of course each season produces a sensational piece of headgear. The late "Merry Widow" has been buried and ostensibly forgotten, so now comes the hit of the fall—the barnyard bonnet. In a stiff breeze it would surely make an ascent, for it is wide of brim and of generous proportions, with the left side rolled up a trifle. Chicken feathers of hectic hues bristle like bayonets about the high crown, standing up eighteen inches with justifiable pride. The worst part of the affair is that Miss Louise says that this model is simply a forerunner of others even more eccentric.

Hat trimmings are fascinating. There are all sorts of spangled effects and embroidered materials used for banding the tall crowns, but silver and gold braid is newer for this purpose than the oriental braid that was so popular last winter. On close fitting walking hats bands of breast feathers are disposed about the crowns; also bandeaux of small wings placed upright encircle the hat in a like capacity. Fur tongues and large hats are going to be very smart later on in the season. All kinds of pelts, including the most expensive, and their imitations will be employed.

Charlotte Corday shapes appear in the winter melange carried out in velvet and in plaited silk, but this shape, immortalized by the heroine of the French revolution, has been modified and conventionalized in the new guise. Be careful, though, my sisters, how you experiment with this Corday affair, for it will play you a dastardly trick by making you look all the years that nature has given you and that art has up to now successfully concealed. No; after one has reached the thirty-five year rubicon cross over and let Charlotte Corday hats go on their way to enhance the loveliness of fair debutantes. These young ladies, too, have to be coiffured appropriately else Miss Charlotte will play them false. They must affect a low, fluffy arrangement of hair as a kind of support for the brim of the hat to rest on.

Appropos of millinery, quite the most amusing theory is that of a modiste here at the capital, the exponent of "mystic millinery." This enterprising person proposes to fit out her customers as far as hats are concerned with headgear that suits their horoscopes instead of merely following the prevailing fashion.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

BLUE POPULAR.

Rather contrary to expectation, rather blue has taken on a prolonged lease of life and is being presented under several charming auspices, in which marquisette raves takes a prominent share. Anything prettier than a visiting gown expressed in this dainty fabric it would be difficult to find, the princess skirt plaited at the waist and meeting rich draperies, bordered by a tiny ball fringe in tone. All the extraneous decoration, and this consisted of soutache, rib, fringe and danglements, was kept in harmony, the sole relief occurring in a vest and undergarment of spot not infinitesimally tucked by hand, the beautifully fitting collar concluding in the inevitable plisse frill.

Autumn Vacations and Some Little Preachments

WELL, vacation time is almost over. I hope you all had just the kind of rest and change you needed.

Speaking of rest, by the way, it's odd to notice how many different kinds people need.

The business man, of course, requires the complete change from the city to the woods. He wants to leave cabs and telephones and all the luxuries of civilization far behind him, to live in a tent close to nature and close to the ground.

But the man who is confined to a stuffy room in an inland village, where he teaches school or writes books or engages in some other confining and exacting occupation, needs the bracing salt of the sea, either a trip to Europe or a trip up and down the coast or, if he can't afford either, a week duck shooting in the salt marshes at this time of the year.

Shooting in the salt marshes.

Country people need an entirely different kind of rest, and you see them taking it in September and October. They come to the city to see the sights and to get brightened up mentally and physically.

What is rest, after all? Merely a relative term. We have to stick to certain things during the larger portion of the year. Circumstance or necessity chains us to them. Now, in order not to get one-sided, like the horse who bears the sidesaddle, we must be sent to pasture. We must get the opposite of what we have all the time. Perhaps the opposite means great activity, traveling and dashing around at a furious rate, but that means rest of the best kind for people who are forced to stagnate most of the year.

It's a great mistake, too, when people think summer is the only time for a vacation. Autumn is ideal. The towns are waking up once more, shop windows become things of joy, train travel ceases to be a burning purgatory of dust. Whether we go cityward or north to the bracing pines and gorgeous woodlands, we find infinite variety and the energy, thanks to the cooler weather, to enjoy it.

So if you haven't had your resting time yet, pick out the kind you like best and enjoy it to your heart's content. Know Thyself!

The wisest and happiest woman in this world is she who thoroughly knows herself, and all the sorrowing foolish ones are those who don't understand their own powers, their own limitations, and, above all, their own weaknesses. Knowledge of human nature has led men to thrones, but a knowledge of one's own nature is even more important; it practically insures a happy life.

Among my grievances against the present system of education for girls this lack of teaching them self knowledge comes first.

A girl is encouraged to learn anything and everything, things for which she is obviously ill fitted, and there is no one wise enough to point out to her what are her strong points and where she is likely to come to grief.

My sex needs less book lore, much less, and more practical knowledge of existence and of people.

Life would be such a one-sided game, women wouldn't lose their money or their hearts so easily, if they were educated along lines of more practical wisdom.

Cheerfulness Essential.

One of the principal things to remember in this world is to keep cheerful. If you are only bright and merry, people love you to death. They hate you worse than poison if you go about telling your troubles. And, by the way, what good does that do you, pray? Can any one help you among your women friends? No! All they can do is to pity you, talk about you and hope you won't come around to give them the blues again in a hurry.

Cry your heart out if you must, you poor dear, when you are alone, but don't trust yourself out of doors until you can smile and laugh and act as if the world were all your cake again.

After all, it's better to be loved than disliked, isn't it? It's worth a bit of self control.

Good luck is much more apt to come your way if you wear a bright smile than if your eyes are red with tears. People will admire your pluck where they would have contempt for you if you wept and whined.

Brace up, you who read this and have troubles. Brace up, and, as the boys say, "Be a sport!"

The Trotter Costume.

Women write to me asking if short skirts are to be worn again this winter. Yes, if the costume is intended for street wear. Of course a tailor made suit should always clear the ground, but a dress designed to wear on the street should also escape the dirt. It is cut, however, a little longer than the tailor skirt, which is often two inches or more away from the ground.

The shoe top length, I am happy to say, is no longer the thing.

When a handsome cloth or velvet gown is made for calling or reception purposes it goes without saying that it is extremely long. Empire lines and fussy sleeves lend an air of elegance to it, and this kind of costume is only worn on special occasions. You don't go downtown or out walking in it by way of showing it off.

The great secret of being well dressed is to observe the fitness of things.

This keeps one from mistakes as nothing else will.

Cloth top and suede boots are again to be worn. It goes without saying that they are not durable, but their beauty is such that every woman will want at least one pair to match her best gown.

With stout boots for walking and rainy days one can save considerable wear and tear on these pretty shoes

THE DAUGHTERS OF THOMAS W. LAWSON.

Although Thomas W. Lawson and his methods of conducting business are regarded as decidedly unique, there is nothing at all peculiar about his two charming daughters, Doris and Mrs. E. B. Stanwood. They are simple and wholly unaffected American women of the most satisfactory type, and that is saying all that is necessary.

A cloth top should never, never be worn in damp weather. One such experience puts it all out of shape. Appropos of Money.

The people who keep chanting "Money isn't everything!" make me tired.

They are invariably the ones who have never had it and who are pretty sure they never will have it.

It's a case of sour grapes! Poverty is no reproach, but neither is it a credit, says the proverb.

And the proverb speaks truth. Money is a fine thing, my sisters. It's a noble ambition to want to earn "Money isn't everything!"

money. It is a very clever and praiseworthy thing to earn money, and it's a thoroughly delightful thing to spend money.

Let us have done with hypocrisy on the money subject as on every other. Let us get busy and accumulate as much as we can honestly, and I'm quite sure we'll have so many ways of distributing it on ourselves and our friends we won't have either time or inclination to call it hard names.

I wish you that kind of luck and a whole lot more.

CLEVER IMITATIONS.

The white handles of those table knives you bought recently are not made of ivory, but of a composition consisting largely of saw milk. The deception is perfectly honest, for the price you paid would not have bought genuine handles of any more valuable substance than bone, and the composition looks better and cleaner and is more pleasant to use.

The keys of your piano are probably made from this same "milk stone," and why should you grumble? They will keep their color better than ivory, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your grand or your cottage piano has not required the slaughter of an elephant in its manufacture. Then, again, your hat, particularly if you are a lady, may not have a particle of straw in its composition. If you bought it at bargain

POSSIBILITIES OF HAIRDRESSING.

A great deal depends upon the arrangement of the hair in bringing good points into prominence or obscuring bad ones. No matter what the fashion may be, no woman should follow it blindly unless it is a mode suited to her particular style. A round face needs the hair arranged on top of the head or brushed off the forehead. The parting in the middle should be avoided.

A broad brow calls for high dressing and as little hair on the temples as possible, while a low brow, where the eyes are not set high, needs the hair kept off the forehead, but a few wavy locks should be arranged on the temples. Fluffy hair should partly cover a receding brow, and the bad effect of high cheek bones is modified by combing the hair over the temples.

The possessor of a broad face with tapering chin should avoid curls or fluffy waves on either side of the head, while the hair arranged in fluffy coils to give breadth to the top of the head is suitable for a broad face and heavy jaw, where no straight lines should be permitted.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

That late hours are a frequent cause of the appearance of premature wrinkles?

That if we took the trouble occasionally to "count our mercies" most of us would find that we have more to be thankful for than to grumble at?

That "absence of occupation" is not rest?

That we cannot expect admiration if we never take any trouble to deserve it. That if we really care for a person we will not say unkind things to or of him?

That other people's tempers, whether good or bad, are often only a reflection of our own?

That when we meet a friend and say to her, "How poorly you are looking!" it is by no means paying her a compliment?

ENGLISH COLLEGE WOMEN.

Women continue to advance to the front ranks in the matter of learning in England. In the Cambridge honors list published this year Miss A. Reeves and Miss E. M. Smith, both of Newham, were alone in the first class of the first part of the moral science tripos.

In the medieval and modern languages tripos six women were in the first class, besides three men.
